GOP Lawmakers Stalled

State Budget Slashes Thwarted

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican lawmakers were stalled today on a plan to cut Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $8.45-billion budget for the next state fiscal year.

Legislative leaders presented a method to cut the budget by $703 million but failed to win endorsement from rank-and-file GOP legislators in closed conferences Saturday and Sunday at the Capitol. They will try again today.

Sources said there were suggestions in both the Senate and Assembly conferences to scrap the $703 million proposal and start anew.

The problem, according to sources, is that the longer the discussions last, the harder it is to reach an agreement — because of outside intervention.

For example, both Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea acknowledged telephone calls Sunday morning from New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay and officials of other cities who were upset over a suggestion to trim the state's program to share income tax revenues with municipalities.

Lindsay complained that the proposed budget cuts would leave the city short about $104 million of the amount needed to pay most city employees this spring.

Others accused Gov. Rockefeller, who helped draft the budget-cutting plan, the legislature's leaders of "breaking faith" in the revenue-sharing program, which was launched last spring with great fanfare as a way to help out communities.

State workers in the Civil Service Employees Association planned to demonstrate outside the Capitol late this afternoon to protest anticipated slashes in the state's work force. The tentative plan calls for elimination of most of the 4,400 new jobs Rockefeller had sought and the lay-off of scores of other state employees.

In the Senate conference, according to sources, there was serious consideration of lifting part of the cut that had been contemplated in the revenue-sharing program. Instead of reducing the program by $121.5 million, it would be cut by $71 million.

In the Assembly conferences, on the other hand, sources reported hardening sentiment for deeper cuts in the budget.

The purpose behind the maneuvering is to avoid some of the tax boosts Rockefeller seeks, but many lawmakers believe that all the tax increases can be avoided. The objective is to have a plan for state spending in the fiscal year starting April 1—next Thursday.

Among other items, Rockefeller sought higher income taxes and business taxes, boosts in taxes on cigarettes and liquor, a one-cent increase in the state sales tax, and hikes in the motor vehicle fees. The higher income taxes and motor vehicle fees were regarded as the most likely candidates for deletion. Legislative leaders said the members were still haggling over the budget cuts and there has been no meaningful discussions on the taxes.

Agreement among GOP lawmakers was essential to passage of the budget. The Republicans need 76 of their 79 votes in the Assembly and 29 of their 31 votes in the Senate to approve a bill.

The budget-cutting plan, which many lawmakers say is getting to be illusory, was based on reductions of $189.5 million in the operation of state government itself; $410 million in state aid, and $103 million in state construction.

To save in state government operations, the plan called for such economies as the consolidation of eight small state agencies and the elimination of three.

The major reductions in state aid would be $141.3 million in welfare, primarily through trimming the state's Medicaid program; $37.2 million in aid to public schools, and $121.5 million in revenue-sharing.

Several construction projects would be dropped or delayed in trimming the construction part of the budget, including the planned $2 million tunnel connection with the Albany South Mall state office building project.

Red Sappers Raid Base Killing 33 GIs

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese sappers ran through a S. artillery base in the jungle south of Da Nang early Sunday, killing 33 Americans and wounding 76 within an hour. It is believed to be the highest American death toll of the war in an attack on a U.S. installation.

The U.S. Command reported some of the sappers were killed, some of them inside the base and some by helicopter and C119 gunships.

Much of the base was overrun, but it remained in American control today. "Extensive action is being conducted in the area," the U.S. Command said.

There was a general stepup in enemy action, much of it in the Da Nang region. U.S. officers said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were taking advantage of the dark of the moon—there is always higher enemy activity about this time because it's easier for the enemy to get into position without being detected," one officer said.

Viet Cong sappers raided a resettlement village 25 miles south of Da Nang early today, killing 13 South Vietnamese, wounding 21 and burning 100 houses. Twenty-five 100-pound rockets hit the Da Nang Air base and the nearby Marble Mountain air facility, damaging a few planes and helicopters and wounding several Americans. Enemy gunners also shelled the headquarters of the U.S. American Division at Chu Lai, south of Da Nang, but no casualties or damage was reported.

The attack on the artillery base 50 miles south of Da Nang began about 2 a.m. with a barrage of 50 to 60 mortar rounds that pinned down the less than 400 American defending the base.

"They put in some mortar rounds and our people took cover," said one American field officer. "There were sappers going through the place throwing satchel charges into our bunkers and firing positions. The sappers swept across the base and dropped the charges as they went across. They did most of the damage."

"We had no intelligence the attack was going to take place," one American field commander said.

Allied defenses in the region south of Da Nang have been generally weakened by the continuing withdrawal of U.S. Marines from the war and by the movement of U.S. and South Vietnamese forces to the northwest for the operation in southern Laos. Although the operation ended last Wednesday, U.S. forces are still trying to withdraw from blocking positions on the Vietnamese side of the border. They are being harassed daily by North Vietnamese attacks.

According to available records for the past four years, the heaviest previous American toll in such an attack was 32 killed and 31 wounded when sappers hit Fire Base Henderson 17 miles south of the demilitarized zone on May 6, 1970. However, 19 South Vietnamese were killed and 40 were wounded in the attack.

Calley Judge Impatient With Jury Deliberation

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The judge in Lt. William Calley's My Lai murder trial is asking opposing lawyers today what to do about the jury that is delaying a verdict far beyond anything known before.

As the deliberations went into the 13th day, there was court-house speculation that the jury may be undecided about how many deaths should be attributed to Calley.

"I recognize the danger of giving them further instructions," Judge Reid Kennedy said.

He instructed the military prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey Daniel, and defense attorney George Latimer to cite any previous cases where a judge injected himself in a jury's discussions.

"I've looked up the law and can find only two cases," where the judge prodded the jury, Col. Kennedy said, "but both were in the sentencing phase, not in the verdict deliberations. I hope Daniel and Latimer can find some others."

Calley is accused of premeditated murder of 102 unresisting Vietnamese civilians during an infantry assault on My Lai three years ago.

The six-officer jury has had the case since March 16—the third anniversary of the assault—but has spent more than 16 hours in the courtroom rehearing the testimony of 20 of the five-score witnesses in the trial.

The jury has the option of convicting Calley while at the same time reducing the number of deaths charged. Even the finding of a single death at tributable to the 27-year-old lieutenant could result in a verdict of premeditated murder or the lesser offenses of unpremeditated murder or voluntary manslaughter.

Unlike a civilian murder jury where a unanimous verdict is required for conviction, there is no hung jury in the military. If two-thirds of a court-martial panel—four members in the Calley case—vote to convict, a guilty verdict is reached. If three are for acquittal, the finding automatically is innocent, and rebalancing is possible only with the consent of four members.

The two mass murder counts against Calley alleged that he killed at least 70 at a drainage ditch east of the village.

Latimer previously objected to allowing the jury to be refreshed on the large volume of testimony saying it "amounts to a second trial."

But Kennedy, pointing to the complex issues and massive testimony in the four months of trial, said he was inclined to be patient with the jury.

He said there will be criticism no matter what the verdict.

"They're damned if they do and damned if they don't," the judge said.

Four Killed on Valley Roads, Two Victims From Dutchess

By WALTER S. CLARK

HYDE PARK Highway collisions in this area during the weekend took a toll of four lives. Two fatalities occurred in Dutchess County, the others were reported in Putnam and Columbia Counties.

Authorities reported that the clear, mild weather brought out an unusual number of motorists on Sunday and numerous traffic accidents were investigated.

The Dutchess County sheriff's office reported 25-year-old Richard V. Reed, of King's Court Hotel, Poughkeepsie, was killed at 12:48 a.m. Sunday when his car was involved in a head-on collision with a vehicle driven by Stanley Shaw, 24, of Pell Road, Poughkeepsie.

Chief Detective Charles Borchers said Reed was northbound on Route 9 near Squire's Inn, Hyde Park, when he lost control of his car. The vehicle veered into the southbound lane and collided with the Shaw car.

Reed was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis' Hospital. Police said death was due to massive head injuries. A verdict of accidental death was given by County Medical Examiner Dr. William G. Thompson of Rhinebeck.

Shaw was admitted to the Poughkeepsie hospital suffering multiple head injuries. He was put in the intensive care unit in serious condition.

It was the second highway fatality in Dutchess County over the weekend.

Lawrence J. Drinon, 29, of Staatsburg, was killed Saturday when his car skidded out of control on Route 9 north of Hyde Park and crashed into a utility pole. Live electrical wires fell on top of the vehicle. The driver was trapped in the wreckage.

Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. work crews and volunteers shut off electric power for 30 minutes until the wires were removed and Drinon was extricated. Drinon was rushed to St. Francis' Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Staatsburg firemen assisted work crews at the scene. A 23-year-old Westchester County man was killed and six other persons were seriously injured at 9 p.m. Sunday, when the cars in which they were riding were involved in a spectacular collision on Route 9 near the intersection of Jaycox Road in the Putnam County community of Phillips-town.

Fishkill State Police reported the vehicles were operated by Ernest J. DeSilva, of Sprout Brook Road, Peekskill, and 29-year-old Patricia A. Alterio of 57 Elk Road, Hopewell Junction, East Fishkill.

DeSilva was pronounced dead at the scene of the mishap which occurred just south of the Dutchess County line in Putnam County.

The survivors of the mishap were taken to the Butterfield Memorial Hospital in Cold Spring. They were passengers in the Alterio car and troopers listed them and their injuries as: Francine Alterio, 6, broken left leg; Helene Brodie, 28, of Hopewell Junction, multiple lacerations; Christine Brodie, 7, broken left leg; Michael Brodie, 5, lacerations of the scalp, and Ellen M. Brodie, 26, broken right leg and lacerations.

Meanwhile, Claverack State Police reported a 23-year-old Columbia County man was killed Sunday when his car went out of control on a highway near Stottville and slammed into a tree.

Troopers identified the victim as Martin R. Kipp, RD 3, Hudson. He was taken to Columbia Memorial Hospital in Hudson and pronounced dead on arrival.

County Jail Term

Turck Sentenced to Year

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Rudolph T. Turck, Kingston stockbroker who pleaded guilty to misappropriating $1,500, was sentenced to a year in the Ulster County Jail today in county court.

The sentence was tempered somewhat by the fact that Turck, with good behavior could be eligible for parole in just under 10 months. Sources at the county jail also indicated that Turck might be eligible for the work release program within 30 days. Under that program the prisoner is allowed to work a regular job during the day but is returned to the jail at night. Turck could have gotten up to seven years in prison.

Sullivan County Family Court

Judge Robert Williams presided at Turck's sentencing today and heard an eloquent plea from one of Turck's attorneys, Francis R. Martocci, for freedom for the defendant. Richard W. Griggs was Turck's other attorney.

Martocci cited Turck's record of more than 22 years in the stock brokerage business, noting that the defendant had never before been arrested or convicted of any crime. He noted the many letters that had been written in Turck's behalf by civic leaders in the community and members of Turck's profession. He argued that Turck had lost his livelihood. He said that Turck intended to pay back every cent but would be unable to do it if sentenced to a prison term.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt called for a jail sentence, stating that it was warranted in Turck's case. "I don't feel his conduct over the past two years has reflected honesty and integrity," Vogt said.

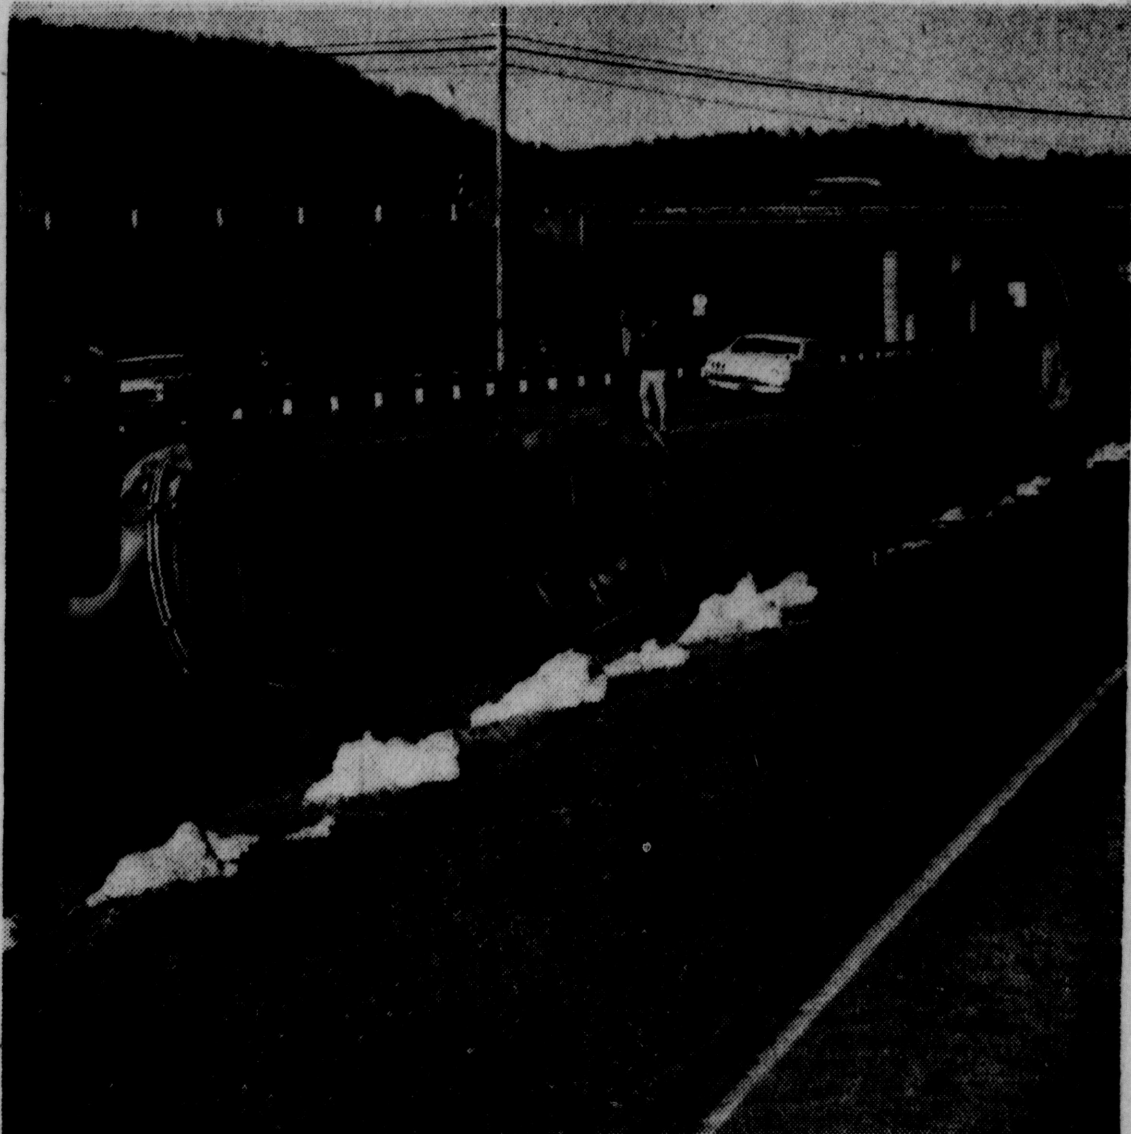

Vogt asked that the defendant be sentenced to a year in jail. He also cited the "urgent need" for legislation for the stock industry. Judge Williams concurred with Vogt on both the sentence and the need for more controls in the stock brokerage business.

Turck had originally been accused of three counts of second degree grand larceny involving $26,000 belonging to Mrs. Poldy Funnicius of Rosendale; an $11,000 cash appropriation of money belonging to William S. Keyser, county coroner and a $1,500 transaction with a woman identified as Mary Gross. The fraudulent check charge involved $13,533 filed by George Dickman, executor of an estate in Rosendale. The other charges were dropped when Turck pleaded guilty to the $1,500 misappropriation.

Turck was arrested on March 26, 1970 at Kennedy Airport by State Police BCI officers on a warrant charging second degree grand larceny in connection with the transaction with Keyser.

The defendant was indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury on July 29 on three counts of grand larceny and the check charge. Miss Ellen Donovan represented the district attorney's office at that time.

ROUTE 209 CRASH—A two-car collision occurred on Route 209 about 300 feet south of Route 28 in the Town of Ulster Saturday. One driver was injured and the other was cited for a traffic violation, according to Kingston State Police. Troopers reported that John Marmo, 46, of Mountainview Avenue, Hurley, was traveling south on the highway, when his car and a northbound vehicle operated by 66-year-old Andrew Krom of 112 Tremper Avenue, Kingston, were involved in a collision. After the impact the Marmo car (shown in photo) overturned on the mall just below the Skytop Motel. Marmo sustained lacerations of the scalp. State Police said Trooper E. A. Zboris cited Krom for failure to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable at a later date. (Glen-dale Studio photo)

Six More Witnesses Due

3rd Day of Arnold Trial Testimony

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON The murder trial of Rodney Arnold of Kerhonkson stemming from the fatal shooting of an Allgerville woman near Accord on June 1, 1970, entered its third day of testimony today before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury.

Arnold, 30, a former guard at Eastern Correctional Institution at Napanoch is charged with fatally shooting Mrs. Elizabeth Blaustein, 31, mother of three children. Before court adjourned on Friday, District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, who is prosecuting the case, had called 12 witnesses to testify. It was expected that he would call at least six witnesses for the people today, including State Police experts from the state laboratory. Among the witnesses heard last week were Mrs. Sandra Arnold, wife of the defendant, and Edward Blaustein, husband of the victim of the alleged murder.

Francis Martocci, attorney for the defendant by Court assignment, has not indicated how many witnesses he would call on behalf of Arnold.

The trial opened last Tuesday with the selection of a jury of nine men and two women. Two alternates were selected — a man and a woman. The jury of 12 was seated in less than two days and testimony by prosecution witnesses began on Thursday, following openings by counsel for both sides.

During testimony of Mrs. Arnold and Blaustein, testimony was related to the court and jury about a friendship that allegedly existed between Arnold and Mrs. Blaustein.

Arnold, who has continued a plea of innocent since his original arraignment, is at liberty in bail of $10,000 pending the outcome of the case.

Authorities allege that Arnold, the father of three, shot Mrs. Blaustein with a 9mm automatic pistol, which police said belonged to him.

Prosecution witnesses testified that an autopsy disclosed eight bullet wounds were found in the body of the woman. They said that examination showed the eight wounds apparently were caused by two bullets.

Mrs. Blaustein and her husband had been legally separated for several weeks prior to the shooting incident.

New Honors For Shannon

KINGSTON Upwards of 110 members and guests of Kingston Lodge 970 Loyal Order of Moose attended the lodge's annual Citizens Award dinner and dance Saturday night honoring retired State Police BCI Investigator Edward Shannon.

The former police official received the Moose Citizens Award in recognition of his 23 years of faithful service to the people of Kingston and other areas where his assignment took him.

The event, held at the Moose Hall on Prince Street, was the second testimonial accorded Shannon since his retirement. Judge Robert Williams was the principal speaker and during his speech extended high praise to Shannon for the fine record he achieved as a police investigator.

Other speakers were Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Joseph Hutton, Moose governor, and former District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca.

The speakers recalled the work done by the honored guest both as a police official and as a promoter of activities among the youth of the county the last several years...

Torraca, who was master of ceremonies, told of the excellent ability of Shannon during the many years he had worked with him as county prosecutor. Since his retirement in December, Shannon has been employed as director of security at the State University College in New Paltz.

The Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Avenue, offered the invocation and benediction.

One Brother Released Following Another's Confession

KINGSTON One brother was released from Ulster County jail and another committed Saturday when the second confessed to the crime for which the first one was being held.

Kingston Police, on routine patrol along Albany Avenue at 3 a.m. Saturday, stopped Steven Riddick and Paul Waters, both 18 and both of 27 Spring Street. Subsequent investigation revealed that the auto in which they were driving had allegedly been stolen from the Highland area.

The two teenagers were turned over to Highland State Police, arraigned before Marlboro Town Justice Lewis

Distasi, entered a plea of innocent and were confined to Ulster County Jail under $2,000 bail.

Later, the same day, Riddick's brother, Paul Winston Riddick, 17, contacted a Kingston attorney, Louis Klein and through him confessed to the alleged crime.

Paul Riddick was charged with grand larceny and committed to jail under $2,000 bail. His brother, Steven and Paul Waters were released the same day.

Freeman Will Participate in Want-Ad Week

Next week, The Daily Freeman and newspapers throughout the United States and in other countries around the world are paying a bit of homage to a communications media that apparently had its origin on a piece of papyrus in the Middle East some 3,000 years ago.

This form of communication, however, has been adopted by newspapers everywhere since the printed word mass medium during and after the 17th century. The occasion is International Want Ad Week April 5-10.

The history of Want Ads is almost as fascinating as is the history of newspapers.

The earliest want ad known to man was printed by hand on a piece of papyrus that was posted on a building portal for the passing people to see. In it a wealthy man offered a reward for information about a missing slave.

Centuries elapsed between that early Want Ad" and the first newspaper. It was only natural, however, that when newspapers began to appear as a respected medium of information, of communications between the masses, the want ad should adopt this medium and that newspapers should adopt the want ad — that little informal message of "a hundred uses" — as their very own.

In the earlier days, want ads were family or individual devices, used largely to sell or buy household items, real estate or the strange or rare; to find lost or stolen items, or to restore to rightful owners articles that had been found.

Since want ads were economical, and at the same time proved fast and efficient in accomplishing their missions, they were family or individual devices, used largely to sell or should find flavor in the business world, where cost, efficiency and dispatch are prime considerations.

The commercial use of want ads, by every kind of business, has continued to expand. The play in the progress of our community. We are grateful to the patrons and readers which ease of preparation, plus keep our want ad section a relatively low cost and mass living and growing part of our publication.

To further celebrate International Want Ad Week, only The Freeman classified department is offering its readers 3 lines of classified advertising to run 6 days for only $3.00, you save $1.86.

Ads may be placed with either the uptown or downtown offices of The Freeman.

Dial direct 338-0606. Ad-Takers will be waiting to be of service. Deadline for ads starting Monday, April 5 is Saturday, April 3 at 3:30 p.m. Downtown offices only will be open Saturday, April 3.

Business-Consumer Panel Formed by Area Chamber

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce has announced the planned formation of a Business-Consumer Panel.

Announcement of the proposal was made by Len Cane, Chamber executive vice-president, who said that the panel was being formed "to provide effective channels for receiving and acting on consumer complaints and suggestions."

A large number of resource areas will be utilized by the panel, commented Cane, including business and professional associations, the Chamber of Commerce, better business councils and consumer groups.

Richard B. Mathews of Colonial City Carpet Company will head the panel, which was the project of the Chamber's Consumer Services Committee chaired by Mrs. Virginia Ellis of the Credit Bureau.

It was noted that several area business associations have agreed to participate in the program.

Cane said that the next step will be to select the members of the panel which will consist of both business representatives and consumers. A public orientation session explaining the function and goals of the group will be held at a later date.

Cane said that the Chamber receives close to 700 consumer complaints each year and many concern area business practices.

Pakistan: Order Restored

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The early morning news broadcast Pakistan government said to monitored in New Delhi that day it had restored order in most of rebellious East Pakistan and announced a partial lifting of the curfew in Dacca. The rebels said they controlled three cities and were continuing the battle.

Radio Pakistan said in an

The rebel "Free Bengal Radio" said Sunday that the forces of East Pakistan political leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman controlled Chittagong, Rangpur and Jessore. The radio announced formation of a rebel government under army Maj. Zia Khan in Chittagong Sunday and said his forces were marching toward Dacca, the Press Trust of India (PTI) News Agency said.

Free Bengal Radio said Sunday night that Pakistani Navy ships shelled Chittagong as government soldiers landed. It said soldiers of the "Liberation Army" battled the Pakistani troops as they were disembarking and captured three army captains.

In Washington, the Pakistan Embassy said "life is returning to normal in Dacca. Reports from New Delhi of continued fighting in the cities and districts of East Pakistan are without foundation." It said workers were returning to government and private jobs and that normal broadcast programming was being resumed.

The embassy discounted reports that Rahman was in hiding and that Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, the federal government's martial law administrator, was injured or assassinated.

PTI, quoting reports reaching the border point of Gauhati City, said martial law authorities arrested the deputy commissioner of Rangpur City Sunday on charges of following Rahman's orders.

PTI said East Pakistani forces, armed with swords and spears, seized Rangpur shortly after the deputy commissioner's arrest but took heavy casualties in the process.

In the Indian town of Petrapole on the East Pakistan border, UPI correspondent Ajit K. Das saw East Pakistanis across the border in Benapole haul down a Pakistani flag at a border checkpoint and raise a rebel flag.

Pakistani customs officials made no attempt to stop the crowd, who shouted across the border to the Indians: "We need aid. Give us aid of all forms. Give us arms."

In reply, the small Indian crowd shouted "Jai Bangla" (Victory to Bengal) in a show of support for the rebels.

Senators Try Anew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two senators who authored last year's law against the use of U.S. ground combat troops in Laos, Cambodia and Thailand say they are nearing agreement on another proposal that would commit the nation to total withdrawal from Indochina.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, told UPI in separate meanings, mamby-pamby approach," Church said. He said it would look beyond President Nixon's month-by-month troop withdrawals to the end of conflict and spell out an irrevocable disengagement.

The amendment will be precisely designed to obviate the probability that a residual force of 50,000 to 100,000 men will be left in Vietnam indefinitely," Church said, to establish a permanent, Korea-type garrison.

Cooper said the proposal would be precise, and would have a binding legal effect. Church added that it would be drafted in such a way as to win support from both Parties, in soon.

both Houses, and perhaps even from the White House.

It was not known if the proposal would contain an exact date for complete withdrawal. Nixon, however, has said he would never accept such a deadline, and administration supporters have insisted such an approach would be tantamount to surrender.

The "Cooper-Church II" would not have to go through the committee process since it would be submitted as a floor amendment. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, would like to hold hearings on all such Vietnam proposals

Violence, Death in Jordan Capital

By United Press International Jordanian troops killed two women in Amman Sunday when they fired on a crowd of several hundred women and school girls they said were being used as a "human barricade" by Arab guerrillas trying to attack police positions.

Three other civilians were wounded in the incident, which touched off a day of violence in the Jordanian capital.

Guerrillas denied they were involved and said the crowd was demonstrating against three days of fighting between government troops and guerrillas in North Jordan.

Libyan Premier Col. Muammar Khadafy said Sunday in a speech monitored in Beirut that the Jordanian Army should overthrow King Hussein and form a "Liberation Front" with the guerrillas. He said Libya would be ready to support such a movement.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said Sunday in a speech at Khartoum, Sudan, that Egypt had done all it could to achieve peace with Israel in the past month.

"But all our efforts have been obstructed by Israeli arrogance and intransigence and the coming days will be decisive in the battle of destiny," Sadat said.

In Jerusalem, official sources said Premier Golda Meir briefed the Israeli cabinet Sunday on latest contacts with the United States, but details of her report were not revealed.

An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said an army patrol killed three guerrillas and captured three others Sunday in a clash on occupied territory in the Jordan Valley. He said there were no Israeli casualties.

Lindsay Fears Budget Cuts to Bring Layoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says proposed state budget cuts would cost the city $104 million in state funds earmarked to pay city employees' salaries this spring. "Substantial layoffs of city employees would be a certainty" and the City University could not support its year-old open enrollment policy next fall if the cuts proposed by Republican legislative leaders are adopted, Lindsay said Sunday.

Lindsay reportedly has mobilized the mayors of Albany, Buffalo, Yonkers, Rochester and Syracuse to visit the Capitol Tuesday to protest the proposed cuts which would reduce from 21 to 17 the percentage of state income taxes going to local governments.

The city's fiscal year ends June 30. Lindsay said salary money for teachers, policemen, firemen, sanitationmen and other employees had been budgeted on the basis of the 21 per cent revenue-sharing ratio enacted last year by the legislature. The mayor termed the proposed cuts "appalling" and "intolerable" and complained that Rockefeller and leaders of Republican majorities in both houses had campaigned for reelection last fall on their "much-heralded revenue-sharing program for local governments."

Lindsay was to meet with his budget staff and key aides today to study further the effects of the proposed cuts and to determine how many employees would be affected.

Meanwhile Republican legislators meet in a budget conference in Albany, and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges of Niagara Falls has told Lindsay "the situation is fluid—it's still open."

Brydges said the Republicans might consider reducing the revenue-sharing percentage to 19 instead of the proposed 17, making New York City's loss about $50 million.

But a spokesman for the Assembly's Ways and Means Committee said the decrease in aid to New York City would be partially offset by a $101 million savings through the governor's proposed welfare plan.

Mayors, Workers, Church People Join Protests Against Reductions

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Mayors across the state, thousands of state workers and the religious community joined voices today to protest proposed cuts in the state budget.

The Republican fiscal committee in the two houses have proposed cutting $700 million from the budget. This would bring Governor Rockefeller's original $8.5 billion proposal down to about $7.7 billion.

The mayors of the state's cities said the state has broken a promise made last year by proposing to cut $121.4 million in the new revenue sharing program.

The religious leaders said welfare cuts are inhumane, and the state workers are protesting plans to fire thousands of their colleagues if budget cuts go through.

The budget trimming would reduce state aid to local governments by $400 million, the cost of operating state government by $200 million and state construction by $103 million. The cut in state government operation totals about 10 per cent of the amount proposed by Rockefeller.

Education spending would be trimmed by $37 million in special programs, but the $2 billion general aid would stay untouched.

Crime Dips in 22 Major Cities Despite National Hike in '70

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI reports that crime declined in 22 major cities despite an 11 per cent increase in the national crime rate in 1970.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said Seattle was the only city to show an across-the-board decline in the number of crimes compared with 1969. The other 21 cities showed increases in some categories, but declines in 22 cities.

For all cities, the report said, crime increased 6 per cent. It rose 15 per cent in the suburbs and 14 per cent in rural areas.

Mitchell said Sunday in a statement accompanying the report that the 11 per cent expansion of crime was the lowest rate of increase since 1966.

In Washington, all crimes were lower except aggravated assault. Only murders were higher in Pittsburgh; only robberies increased in St. Paul, Minn.

The 10 biggest cities reporting declines were Chicago, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo., Oakland, Seattle, Louisville and St. Paul.

Rounding out the 22 were cities with populations between 100,000 and 250,000: Berkeley and Fresno, Calif.; Savannah, Rockford, Ill.; Waterbury, Conn.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Flint, Mich.; Duluth, Minn.; Utica, N.Y.; Providence, R.I.; Columbia, S.C. and Reading.

The preliminary FBI crime index released Sunday said violent crimes as a group rose 12 per cent last year. Robbery was up 17 per cent while larceny rose 14 per cent and property crimes and burglary climbed 10 per cent. The final report will be made this summer.

Forcible rape increased 2 per cent. Aggravated assaults rose 7 per cent. Auto theft climbed 5 per cent.

Penn Central Stock Buyers Victims of a Shell Game

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Buyers of Penn Central stock in the months before the railroad went bankrupt were victimized by a big-time shell game carried on by banks and investment companies who dumped their stock because of inside information, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Texas said today.

Patman made the comments as his House Banking Committee issued its fifth staff report on the Penn Central failure. The report says nine banks and investing firms sold 1.8 million shares of Penn Central from April 1, 1970, until June 21, 1970, when Penn Central Transportation Co. went into receivership.

"The purchasers of this stock can rightfully feel that they were victims of a massive shell game carried on by financial entities in a position to know the innermost financial secrets of the Penn Central organization," Patman said.

The staff report said it did not "necessarily express the views of the committee or any of its individual members."

It singled out for special criticism Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, the Allegheny Corp., New York, and two mutual funds that Patman said are controlled by Allegheny, Investors Mutual Inc., and Investors Diversified Services.

The report said Chase Manhattan sold 463,000 shares of Penn Central and the Allegheny firms sold 590,800 shares during the spring of 1970.

Chase Manhattan, in a statement issued to accompany the report, said it did not act on inside information and added that it maintains a strict separation between its lending department and the department that controls investments for trusts. It said it sold the stock because of adverse publicity about Penn Central's financial posture.

Patman also criticized the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, saying the agencies either knew or should have known about the impending bankruptcy but failed to warn the public.

He said President Nixon also failed to alert the investing public and had this criticism of the press:

"It seems possible that more vigorous and critical reporting on the financial pages might have given the public some indication of the grave nature of Penn Central's financial problems and prevented the loss of millions of dollars by unsuspecting investors."

The report said the five other firms which sold more than 30,000 Penn Central shares during the April 1-June 21 period included Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., New York; Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., Chicago; Provident National Bank, Philadelphia; Security Pacific National Bank, Los Angeles; and United States Trust Co., New York.

War on Organized Crime

Attorney General John N. Mitchell went the other day to New Jersey, where he said the federal government in the past two years had devoted more law enforcement efforts than in any other state. He ticked off some of the results:

Officials of the two largest cities in New Jersey have been brought under the Federal criminal justice process. Sixty-two defendants were convicted; 139 others were indicted and are awaiting trial; 95 more were arrested on probable violations of federal laws and are awaiting grand jury presentations.

With more legal weapons—Mitchell credited the use of court-authorized wiretapping for over 900 arrests, over 500 indictments and over 100 convictions—better financing and better organization, the Attorney General gave this box score of the war on organized crime throughout the country.

There were 386 persons identified as higher echelon leaders in organized crime syndicates; in 1970, 122 of them were indicted, nearly one-third; of the total strength of 5,000 in organized crime, in 1970 there were 1,800 indicted or convicted.

"Let me ask you," Mitchell said, "how many organizations can lose one-third of their leadership and one-third of their rank-and-file in a year's time without being severely hurt?"

Not only were federal laws strengthened, New Jersey's statewide grand jury has proved of real help. With authority to consider and indict anywhere in the state, it has not stopped at county borders in pursuit of the racketeers, who themselves operated throughout the state. State and federal cooperation have proven most effective in this state. They can be much more effective nationally.

Cash for Prisoners of War

While Congress passed a resolution stating its concern for the American prisoners of war and President Nixon signed a proclamation making this National Week of Concern for Americans who are Prisoners of War or Missing in Action, 193 more letters from the prisoners themselves were received and dispatched to their families. This brought to more than 3,400 the total number of letters received since December, 1969, a small number considering that at least 1,600 are missing in action or held prisoners by Communists in Southeast Asia.

Meantime, the undertaking of the Crosby brothers, Bing and Larry, to ransom the prisoners has had some encouragement. John Fairfax, the Crosbys' liaison man, has been granted a visa to visit Hanoi. This provides hope that the plan is being considered by the North Vietnamese. Larry Crosby figures it would cost $1 billion to ransom all the POWs, in work to rehabilitate North Vietnam, as he and his brother have promised.

The idea is reminiscent of the ransom in drugs and cash paid Fidel Castro for the release of political prisoners held by his regime. (It began an Exodus from Cuba which still continues.) The Communists have not been interested in trading prisoners, the normal exchange in such instances. Perhaps the Crosbys have found a way to reach them, through cash and rehabilitation represented by cash.

With no job, no clothes and no place to go, what does a woman do to avoid robbing people when she is released from prison? Washington University Law School assigned two lawyers to help such women. Staying out of trouble after their first misstep could save them from a life of crime.

Since January, 1969, the bombers of only one of the 51 bombings of federal buildings have been apprehended, the General Services Administration reports. One reason is the thin guard, 5,000 for about 10,000 federal buildings across the country, which leaves many unguarded most of the time. Guarding our valuable property by human and mechanical means is a must.

Before the Guests Arrive

David Lawrence Says U.S. Foreign Policy Based On Delicate World Affairs

WASHINGTON — Testimony being taken by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on legislation to limit the President's authority to utilize American military power abroad may in the long run do more harm than good.

The exponents of a policy that would impose restrictions on the President are influenced by what they think is popular politically in America today. They feel that the people want restraints placed so that American troops will never be engaged again in wars abroad. But while the purpose may seem worthwhile, the actual interference with the conduct of foreign policy by the President of the United States could result in serious consequences and perhaps get the United States entangled in wars that it might otherwise have been able to avoid.

Under the Constitution, the President of the United States is supposed to conduct relations with other governments and issue orders to the heads of the armed services in order that they may, by the presence of their various units, assist in carrying out objectives of American foreign policy.

Before World War I and before World War II, isolationists in the United States gave the impression that the American people would never permit participation in any wars abroad. The belief was so widespread that a totalitarian government in Germany miscalculated the Washington policies and went ahead with its plans for a war on the assumption that the United States would not become an ally of the countries attacked.

The foreign policy of the United States is based upon delicate matters which arise in different parts of the world. They must be handled from day to day by the President or his representatives in a manner that will prevent some nation from taking advantage of the American position. The current discussion about Vietnam doesn't show an awareness of the many problems in Asia which have been before our government and which were considered prior to the time the South Vietnamese government requested aid and some of our forces went to help repel the aggression by North Vietnam.

Those members of Congress who are arguing today for limitation on the President's powers by means of legislation are not likely to find that the Supreme Court will uphold them. The chief executive's authority is well defined in the Constitution. He is charged with the responsibility for protecting the United States against invasion, and this cannot be done by waiting until naval vessels are in American waters or armed forces are landed on American territory or missiles are launched against American cities. The United States has felt that our defense can best be achieved by alliances with free nations in Europe and Asia, and these naturally call for a certain amount of reciprocity — a willingness to participate in a joint defense.

It is assumed, of course, that when the United States is drawn into a conflict, as happened in 1917 and in 1941, a declaration of war will be requested from Congress. But when in 1950 the United States sent its armed forces to become a part of the United Nations effort to repel aggression in Korea, President Truman did not feel it was necessary to ask for a declaration of war. American troops fought in defense of South Korea. The action was regarded as a requirement under the broad pledges made by the United States when the United Nations Charter was approved by the Senate.

If the impression is developed throughout the world that a President of the United States cannot make any move without going to Congress and that this means a long discussion with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and finally a dialogue in both Houses, it will give an opportunity to our adversaries abroad. They can plan their strategy in such way as to coerce small nations in different parts of the world, many of which would feel they could no longer depend on American help to stop aggression.

What the current controversy reveals is that there are men in Congress who want to keep the United States from coming to the aid of small countries, even though failure to do so may lead to major wars abroad in which American involvement will become inevitable. There were isolationists who took similar positions in the House and Senate prior to both world wars. The United States was almost completely unprepared for the wars into which it was drawn in 1917 and 1941.

JUST FOR THE RECORD

A world record is an abnormality. For good or evil, it is far removed from the norm. And yet, I am fascinated by the mathematics of these things and I wait each year for a copy of "Guinness Book of World Records" so that I can shake my woolly white head in wonderment over such items as Robert P. Wadlow of Alton, Illinois, who was the tallest man in the world at 8 feet, 11 inches. The tallest giraffe had him by 10 feet.

The smallest adult was Pauline Musters of Holland who, at age 19, was 24 inches tall and weighed 9 pounds. The heaviest man was Robert E. Hughes of Monticello, Illinois, who weighed 1,069 pounds in February 1958, and popped off five months later. The greatest dieter was Mrs. Celsta Geyer, who dropped from 555 pounds to 120 in 14 months. The oldest man was Pierre Joubert of Charlebourg, Quebec. His age was authenticated at 113 years, 124 days.

Mrs. Fyodor Vassiliot of Russia was a great mother: she gave birth to 69 children in 27 confinements. (Oil — whatever that means.) The average male brain weighs 3 lbs. 1.73 oz. The female brain tilts at 2 lbs. 12.83 oz. So much for Women's Lib. There is a swami in India whose hair is 26 feet long. Must be fun going through a revolving door.

Sensory nerves carry messages to the brain at 265 m.p.h. If, of course, it is the right message. Wrong ones go faster. The most noted hypochondriac was Samuel Jessup of Heckington, Lincolnshire, England. Between the years 1792 and 1816, he popped 226,934 pills and 40,000 bottles of medicine. His stomach surrendered at age 65.

Dr. Robert Liston of Edinburgh, Scotland, wanted the world's record for the fastest amputation, so he removed a leg in 33 seconds. He also removed three fingers from his assistant. The biggest animal is a female blue whale 96 feet long, weighing 163 tons. A turtle which died on May 19, 1966, was originally presented to Captain James Cook on October 22, 1773.

The dog who fathered the most puppies was a British greyhound who had 2,414, registered offspring, and 600 more out of wedlock. His name — brace yourself — was "Low Pressure." In January 1969, a female German shepherd left in Brindisi by her master, tracked him alone to Milan, 745 miles. An adult Cuban hummingbird weighs one-eighth of an ounce. There is a live chicken for every person in the world — about 3 billion.

No one knows the fastest fish, but the swiftest ever clocked is a Florida sailfish at 68 m.p.h. Millepedes, an insect found in Panama, has the most legs — 784. Try keeping her in pantyhose. The fattest tree is a cypress in Oaxaca, Mexico — 150 feet in girth. Our planet sustains a half million earthquakes every year.

The greatest modern explosion was Krakatoa in the Sunda Strait on Aug. 27, 1883. It wiped out 163 villages, killed 36,380 people by tidal wave alone, tossed boulders 34 miles into the sky and had 26 times the power of a modern H-bomb. Everything evens up in the end. The earth picks up 2,240 tons of cosmic dust each day. Soon, man will be tossing that much into outer space in missiles.

The largest iceberg seen was sighted by U.S.S. Glacier in Nov. 1956. It was estimated to be 208 miles long and 60 miles wide. The highest wave was 112 feet from crest to trough. Only 29.4 per cent of the earth is land. The world's tallest mountain is not Everest — it's Mauna Kea on Hawaii. Its base is 19,680 feet beneath the Pacific, and it rises 13,796 feet above water — a total of 33,476. Try that little bet in your favorite tavern.

The highest temperature was recorded at Ouargla, Algeria: 127.4 degrees F. The lowest was at Vostok, Antarctica, 126.9 degrees below zero. The earth moves around the sun at 66,690 m.p.h. Absolute zero, beyond which nothing can grow any colder, is 459 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Jack Anderson Says Kissinger Vetoes Laird's Proposal to Cut Down Defense

WASHINGTON — The Secretary of Defense traditionally has fought in the backrooms for more money, more men, more weapons. It is newsworthy, therefore, that Mel Laird has been calling for military reductions.

He has argued that the nation, by pursuing peace as its policy, could avoid future Vietnam. This would make it unnecessary, he has contended, to maintain the present military build-up.

He has agreed that the U.S. must be prepared to defend its legitimate interests around the world. But he has questioned the need to rush to the aid of every tottering nation that is faced with insurrection.

He has suggested that former President Johnson never would have been drawn so deeply into Vietnam if peace had been the national priority and a large stand-by force hadn't been available for brush warfare.

Laird has been bitterly opposed inside the policymaking council by his own military chiefs. Last month, he was finally overruled in the White House by Henry Kissinger, the powerful national security aide.

The bald, bluff Defense Secretary submitted his views to the White House in a position paper, with strong dissents from each of the three services. The paper wound up, inevitably, in Kissinger's Defense Program Review Committee, which appears on the White House organization charts as part of the National Security Council.

Kissinger rejected Laird's proposals and laid down the military guidelines last month in a secret memo that had President Nixon's approval.

Essentially, the guidelines call for consolidation and modification of conventional forces to increase their effectiveness. There will be some pullback in Asia, but the U.S. will hold the line in Europe.

To maintain a "realistic deterrence," there will be no substantial cutback in conventional strength, and enough nuclear weapons will be scattered around the world to discourage an enemy attack.

Dole's Delirium
When an obscure right-wing publication recently published an astonishing memorandum on Republican political strategy purportedly written by Attorney General John Mitchell, a Midwestern subscriber couldn't believe what she read.

So she sent a copy of the publication, "The Woman Constitutionalist," to Sen. Bob Dole, the Republican National Chairman, asking whether the memorandum was authentic.

She had good reason to wonder. Supposedly addressed to "All White House Staff," the memo called for an all-out GOP appeal to the minority vote as a means of winning the 1972 campaign.

It ordered that all criminal prosecutions of Negroes be immediately stopped and that welfare mothers be paid $50,000 apiece in federal subsidies so they could move to the white suburbs.

"White union leaders will be arrested (and) replaced by Negroes approved by the White House," the memo goes on. "To OBTAIN THE JEWISH VOTE, the Pentagon has scheduled TEN THOUSAND TROOPS FOR JERUSALEM SIX WEEKS BEFORE the election."

The memo, obviously, is a fake. But Dole wrote the woman: "It does contain much food for thought and I would be inclined to believe its authenticity is not questionable."

A spokesman for Mitchell called the memo "pure unadulterated nonsense." A sheepish spokesman for Dole explained that the Kansas Senator got so many letters that some had to be answered by staff and he didn't have time to check them all.

Washington Whirl
TV Commercials — Federal Communications Chairman Dean Burch has invited parents to tell him whether they object to the hard-sell commercials that interrupt children's television programs. But the TV networks have largely suppressed Burch's request for comments. Except for one or two brief mentions in newscasts, the FCC chairman's statement about kiddies' commercials has been kept off TV. Interested parents and other TV viewers have until May 3 to tell Burch what they think of these commercials. Letters should be addressed to Chairman Dean Burch, Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554.

Mideast Settlement — The diplomatic negotiators are close to achieving a partial Middle East settlement that would call for a withdrawal of Israeli and Egyptian forces from both banks of the Suez Canal. The canal would then be reopened to international shipping. This happens to be Russia's chief objective in the peace negotiations. Once the canal is re-opened, State Department strategists expect the Russians to continue to stir up tensions and turmoil in the Middle East. Our strategists believe, however, that the Kremlin will step back from a confrontation with the United States.

Henry J. Taylor Says The Israel-Egypt Impasse

President Nixon has an unstated objective in the dangerous Egypt-Israel impasse. When this column reported before Mr. Nixon's election his statement to me that he regarded the situation in the Middle East "more dangerous than even the Vietnam war" what was true then in Mr. Nixon's mind is true today.

Dismayed by the intense cold war Moscow is promoting in the Mideast and the Kremlin's false military disclaimers through Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the President makes this Vietnam comparison because he sees in the Middle East the potential for a direct confrontation between our country and the U.S.S.R.

The Russians are chess players. We are poker players, which is why we so often lose out. The Russians move like chess players, planning it all ahead. They take one pivotal position in order to dominate the next pivotal position. And year in, year out in this competitive Mideast area Russia has increased its stakes and power.

Faced by the fiery heart that holds Israel together, the Arab world asks: Does Israel want peace or territory? Mr. Nixon sees the Russians, in turn, continuing to circle around Israel, looking for its blind side, like a switchblade fighter would when he's in a fight with a one-eyed man, while the Israeli keep extra pairs of eyes in the backs of their heads.

At the same time — except for Turkey, Israel, Tunisia and Morocco — the entire southern rim of the Mediterranean is hostile to us, its fiery heart held together by its hatred for Israel.

This endangers our country like a wary elephant toedancing on a highwire over a pit full of crocodiles and delivers our destiny to the course of events.

Yet, regarding another Israeli-Arab war, a Gallup poll finds that more than 65 per cent say we should stay out, 59 per cent say we should not send arms to Israel and 33 per cent not to the Arabs, although 62 per cent regard a new war there as likely.

Behind the scenes, this brings President Nixon to his unstated objective.

In his programming affecting the Israel-Egypt impasse he hopes that the Sinai Peninsula would be demilitarized to make Israel's final borders with Egypt secure. Far more important, however, and this is the crux of it, the President feels that the West should insist on a phase-out of Russian forces in Egypt.

Kremlin denials through Foreign Minister Gromyko notwithstanding, our Central Intelligence Agency has reported to President Nixon that Soviet forces number an appalling 15,000, including six Red Army generals. In addition to seaborne deliveries Russia has flown more than 800 missions of war materials. It has sent at least 300 jet fighters and 90 advanced bombers. More than 300 Egyptian pilots have been trained in Russia. Some 4,000 Soviet technicians are in Egypt now.

Yet President Nixon himself had a firsthand encounter with the ineffectiveness of our counterforce at the time of his visit to President Tito in Yugoslavia. Necessarily unrevealed to our public in the Lebanon skyjacking crisis, President Nixon had to consider American intervention. But the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously warned him:

(1) The readiness state of the U.S. 7th Army in West Germany had been so cannibalized that the shortage of manpower was too acute. The already-alerted airborne brigade in West Germany was so short of trained men that it would make a poor, if not disastrous, choice if troops were required.

(2) Even the highly publicized 82nd Airborne Division, supposedly the best-trained, prepared and equipped "fast action" combat-ready force available, could muster only two of its three brigades because of manpower shortages.

(3) The Navy, in a showdown between the Soviet and American Mediterranean fleets in which the Russians would fire first, could give President Nixon no clear assurance of the outcome. Vice Admiral Isaac C. Kidd Jr., commanding our 6th Fleet, flashed the President in Belgrade from his flagship Springfield that the fleet was short of manpower, including sufficient technicians, short of planes, short of other combat equipment, short of ammunition reserves, needed key electronic parts, was short of spare parts as a whole and had insufficient logistic backup.

In speaking of the Mideast the President tells it straight and simple and whole, and his voice drips cold like liquid stalactites.

Asleep on the Job

Editor, The Freeman

Since I have been unable to get certain legitimate questions answered, I wonder if certain politicians and public officials have the newest invention—an alarm clock without a bell for people who don't wake up!

I'd like to suggest that these officials who don't seem to be doing anything for the public good try this special drink composed of milk, sugar and rum. The milk is for strength, the sugar for energy and the rum to give them ideas on how to answer all those aggravating questions from their constituents.

I'd like to warn these politicians and public officials, if they want to continue to sleep on the job, not to go near any cannibals. I recently heard the cannibals are anxious to catch a politician so they can have baloney sandwiches.

Yours truly,

New Paltz Campus School

Editor, The Freeman:

There has been a bill introduced in the Legislature (S.1. 2915; A.1. 3465) which, if passed, will mandate that the Campus School in the Village of New Paltz will be closed July 1, 1971. Can we afford to let this happen? We think not.

The justification for the bill suggests that the Campus School serves an unnecessary purpose and so should be discontinued. We believe that the Campus School at New Paltz serves a very necessary function and should be continued. Besides acting as a part of our central school district the Campus School is an integral part of the teacher training program at the University. Many of the courses which are required to qualify as a teacher include observations and participations in a school. It is understood that this is one of the functions of this Campus School. Can you imagine that the public schools, with their numbers of students, could take on this full load? The Campus School serves as a laboratory where research and experiments are carried on in developing and evaluating education theories and practices and it also helps in serving community needs. Programs currently being carried on at Campus School are:

A Migrant Program

Life (learning involvement for everyone)

Education Communications Center

United States Office of Education Grant (a study of sequence factors in programmed instruction)

Frostig Visual Perception Program

Unifed Arts

Experimental Learning Classroom

Educational Development Laboratory

Computer Assisted Instruction

Ungraded Mathematics in 4th, 5th, and 6th

Mathematics Laboratory

Foreign Languages for Elementary School

Secondary Mathematics Exchange

School Camping

Participation (270 students participate during the year)

Art Education (75-100 students work with the school during the year)

Speech Clinic (14 students)

Special workshops for teacher training

Undergraduates use the school for independent study

Observation (over 7,000 observation periods have been scheduled)

Demonstration lessons

Campus School teachers cooperate with surrounding schools

Student teachers train here

We feel that the loss of these programs and services would be felt throughout the community.

However, the loss of these enriching experiences is only part of the problem. Let us consider the effect on the community of moving the 400 students now at Campus School into our public school system. How could we physically accommodate this number of students. Do we have enough classroom and activity space, books, equipment, personnel, necessary to provide a well balanced, good education for all the students? How could we provide these necessary things in such a short time?

If passed, this bill provides that the school district will have to raise approximately $241,000 locally to contract with the state to keep the Campus School or assume full responsibility for the education of these 400 students within the present school system and without an immediate provision for receiving extra aid. It seems to us that, however these children are provided for, the cost to the district (if Campus School closes) would put a tremendous burden on the taxpayer. We can tell you that the budget requires approximately $500,000 to run the Campus School. If the school were to close state aid to the district would be approximately the same — when we got it. So we fail to find any great saving to the state by closing the school.

We are concerned that there be a good education system which provides a continuing opportunity for growth and development for all children and adults too. We believe the Campus School, because of its many uses and availability to so many people, helps the University to meet this responsibility. Therefore, in behalf of the education students at the State University at New Paltz, we urge you to write your legislators, Senator Jay Rolison, Assemblyman Clark Bell, Mr. W. Stephens (Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee), the Director of the Budget, and Governor Rockefeller—all of them at Albany, New York asking them to kill this bill.

The State Legislature

Editor, The Freeman:

While New York State faces what may be the worst fiscal crisis in its history, the dedication of the State Legislature to coming up with effective and equitable solutions to this crisis is in serious doubt. The Legislature is required to act on the budget by April 1, when the State's fiscal year begins, just one week from now. If, during this week, the Legislature puts in a full five-day work week, as they say they will, it will be their first full week since they convened in January.

For the most part, the State Legislature has been meeting just three days per week, Monday through Wednesday. And it is a pretty safe bet that as soon as they feel enough voters have been placated and the budget has been passed, we will witness another frantic flurry of activity as they rush to adjourn before the first of May.

Think back to April of last year and you may recall the fiasco that was the State Legislature during those last few days of the 1970 session, when hundreds of bills were passed, many of them unread, by State Senators and Assemblymen anxious to return to their own businesses and law practices. How much of this year's record budget was mandated by those hurriedly passed bills no one knows.

It is unfortunate, but the State Legislature is composed of too many part-time men unable to resolve full-time problems. For example, axing the state welfare budget by 25 per cent is not an intelligent approach to needed welfare reform. There have been abuses to the state welfare program, but reducing aid for dependent children, as Assemblyman Bell has proposed, hardly seems the best way to stop those abuses, and may, in the long run, cause more problems than it solves. Rather this would seem to be a shameless grandstand play designed primarily to take some of the heat off.

Welfare is a nationwide problem, and as such demands a national solution. But until such time as the Federal Government assumes the cost of welfare and establishes uniform nationwide system of welfare funding, the responsibility for establishing welfare regulations lies with the State Legislature. This is just one of many critical responsibilities that they have been charged with. But few of these responsibilities can be resolved by part-time representatives approaching them in a half-hearted manner, three days a week, four months of the year.

Almost 25 per cent of the residents of Ulster County earn less than $5,000 per year; most of the rest fall somewhere in the middle income bracket. Our State Senator and Assemblymen are each paid $15,000 per year plus an additional $3,000 for expenses for their "part-time job". When WHITA and other taxpayers groups meet with their representatives this week in Albany, they might ask them what they have done and will be doing for the rest of this year to earn that salary.

Middle East Policy

Editor, The Freeman

The recent criticism of Secretary of State Rogers' Middle East policy statements by certain United States senators in particular Senator Javits of New York is totally unjustifiable.

The brunt of their argument has it that our government should mind its own business and let the Israelis handle negotiations with the Arabs. Of course, they assert, we must use. It is possible that three-fourths of the town is all economy and furnish weapons so that she will have her way in those negotiations.

It seems curious to me that our elected representatives should advocate such a one-sided arrangement — an arrangement leading to territorial ambitions at the cost of American dollars, American strategic and economic interests and American honor. It makes one wonder who these senators actually represent.

Zoning Regulations

Editor, The Freeman

In what sounds like battlefield jargon, town after town around us has succumbed to or has been threatened with zoning regulations recently. Will the Town of Wawarsing be the next to knuckle under? I hope not — or at least not until the town gets what it wants, instead of being told what it is getting whether it likes it or not!

The Town of Mamakating is in the same boat and I see by the paper that their proposed ordinance slots 75 per cent of the town into non-conforming use. It is possible that three-fourths of the town is all economy and furnish weapons so that she will have her way in those negotiations.

We have just heard about what happened with zoning in the Town of Rochester and it did not sound pretty.

In order to make a firm stand and to protect our common interests, petitions have been circulated about the town for the past several weeks and will continue to be in circulation for the rest of this week only. Thanks to the participation of several area businesses and individuals, the response to these petitions has been overwhelming. I realize that our township is quite widespread and we have tried to continue to try to reach anyone who is interested in signing the petition. Floyd Bevier or I would be glad to be of assistance to any interested parties.

Of course I realize it is wishful thinking on my part, but wish I will, that each signature was represented in person at the town board meeting.

County Fair Plans Set

NEW PALTZ The Ulster County Agricultural Society met in New Paltz recently to examine the many facets to the organization of a county fair. Fair dates for 1971 in Ulster County are Aug. 13, 14 and 15.

The emphasis of the fair, is agriculture. Livestock of all types will be shown in both open class and 4-H competition. Exhibits of public service organizations, local industries, Ulster County Granges and the 4-H forin one of the bases which make up this well-rounded fair.

Last year's greased-pig catching contests were such a success, they will be included in 1971. Other events being scheduled are appearances of local dance bands, singing groups, drum and bugle corps, a Gymkhana, rodeostyle horse show, fashion shows and rock-etry demonstrations.

The Ulster County Agricultural Society has just barely scratched the surface of possibilities which will help to make the 1971 Ulster County Fair the "Fun One" with something for everyone. Further details will be an-

Barclay Speaker

CHARLES J. SCALA JR.

SAUGERTIES

Barclay Heights Homeowners Civic Association is sponsoring an open forum Wednesday, March 31 at 8 p.m. in Glasco Fire Hall for First Dist. Legislator Charles J. Scala Jr. Scala, who represents Saugerties in the County Legislature will speak on current legislative topics and there will be an opportunity for a question and answer period.

Jaycees Seek New Members

SAUGERTIES

The Jaycees are hunting in Saugerties, and, judging from the voting rolls, the hunting should be good. They are looking for young men between the ages of 21-35 who would like to work or run one of the group's existing projects, or who would like to propose a new project for Saugerties.

Robert Martin, who is heading the membership drive said, "To grow, we need the participation of you young men to replace other village men who (some still are) were active. Among them are George Turner (Salesman-Village Government), Graham Barkhuff (Teacher), Dr. Richard Messina (Dentist), Richard Buono (Barber), Harry Hoffman (IBM Employee), Richard Smith (Hardware - UCCC Board of Directors), and many others.

"We need you in our organization, and Saugerties needs you."

The Jaycees are having a membership rally at the Flamingo Restaurant March 29 at 8 p.m. Wives are invited, and refreshments will be served. The Jaycees meet at the Flamingo the 3rd Monday of every month at 7:30 p.m.

For information on the rally, or membership meeting, contact Martin, membership chairman, or John Lawrence, president.

Chess Team Wins Title

WOODSTOCK

Kings Knight Chess Club of Woodstock has repeated as Hudson Valley League chess champions by defeating IBM-Kitchewan 3½-1½, recently at Deane's. This gave Woodstock (the northern division champion) a 7½-2½ victory over IBM-Kitchewan (the victors in the southern division) in the playoff for the league title.

The individual results had Eugene Meyer and Tad Crawford winning on second and third boards respectively, while draws were scored by Getti Sveikauskas on board one, Boren Zalar on board four and Robert Wilder on board five. Woodstock suffered no outright loss, winning five and drawing five.

These two league titles in succession give Woodstock the league trophy permanently.

Bennett P-TA Nominations

BOICEVILLE

The Nominating Committee of the Bennett School P-TA has announced its recommendation of a slate of officers for the election and installation to be held Thursday, May 20 in conjunction with the Bennett School Spring Concert.

The slate includes Irene Motrie, president; Kay Humphrey, first vice president; Michael Boyle, second vice president; Guido D'Alessio, treasurer; Lucille Braun, recording secretary and Carole Roberts, corresponding secretary.

The P-TA has scheduled a fashion and wig show for Thursday, April 2. Rita Vanacore is chairman.

Arrest 29th In Continuing Drug Roundup

HIGHLAND
Sought by authorities since the mass narcotics raids in the area on Friday, March 19, Brice Francis Dalrymple of Ridge Road, Marlboro, was taken into custody Sunday night by State Police on a bench warrant issued by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Dalrymple, 19, was one of 29 defendants named in indictments by a Supreme Court grand jury on March 17, following an intensive investigation by police investigators of sales and possession of narcotics in the county.

The indictment specifically charges the youth with criminally selling a dangerous drug in the third degree, dangerous drug in the fourth degree and criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the sixth degree. The charges involved marijuana.

Dalrymple, who was the 29th person taken into custody in connection with the raids, is scheduled to appear before County Judge Mino.

Kingston Woman Awarded $25,000 In Traffic Case

KINGSTON
A Supreme Court jury awarded a young Kingston woman $25,000 for injuries sustained in an automobile accident which took place May 20, 1969 at the intersection of DeWitt Lake Road and Mountain Road in the Town of Ulster.

Kingston attorney Charles Gaffney represented Mary C. Waterman of 86 Hone Street Kingston, in her case against Frank and Doris Landerway of 37 Stuyvesant Street, Kingston, represented by William C. Mullany and a third defendant, William A. Reynolds, of Cotekill, represented by Francis X. Tucker.

The 11-1 verdict came Friday before Supreme Court Justice William C. Christiana following a two-day trial in which it was contended that the plaintiff sustains persistent and intermittent facial and back injuries as a result of the accident.

Youth 18, Jailed; Had Possession Of Billy Club

WALLKILL
An 18-year-old youth was arrested Saturday by Highland State Police on a warrant charging him with criminal possession of a dangerous weapon — a billy club.

Edwin Santiago of Freetown Road, Plattkill, pleaded guilty before Shawangunk Town Justice Fred E. Earl, who sentenced the defendant to a $100 fine or 30 days in the county jail. In lieu of payment of the fine the youth was committed. The alleged violation took place several weeks ago, authorities said.

Probe Homicide At HRSH

POUGHKEEPSIE
State Police from the Rhinebeck Barracks are investigating an apparent homicide at the Hudson River State Hospital, here.

According to the State Police, an unidentified patient struck an employee of the hospital on the head with a two by four around 9:30 a.m. today. The victim died later at St. Francis Hospital.

Twenty Crewmen Missing

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — of two messages from the Lib-erian freighter Sasstown saying it had picked up 11 survivors in a life raft.

Both messages, the Coast Guard said, reported 20 crewmen missing—last seen by the survivors as they abandoned the stern section of the 20,084-ton tanker about 5:30 a.m. Sunday.

A Texaco spokesman in Port Arthur, said however that records showed 42 crewmen aboard.

The Sasstown, en route to New York, sighted the life raft about 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Coast Guard had difficulty learning details of what happened, but a spokesman said one message from the Sasstown quoted the survivors as saying the stern section they abandoned sank half an hour after-ward.

They were reported to have scattered throughout the rest of the ship, which they saw for the last time at midnight, 18 1/2 hours after they launched the raft. They did not see the rest of the ship sink, nor did they see any other rafts, the Coast Guard said.

By the time the Coast Guard got a plane into the air late Sunday, all it found was a huge oil slick. The pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Patrick H. Cannon, said the Sasstown by then was 145 miles east of Elizabeth City, N.C., in seas running 8 to 10 feet.

The Texaco Oklahoma was en route from Port Arthur to Boston with a cargo of 220,000 barrels of sulphur fuel oil, the Coast Guard said. Most of the crewmen, a Texaco spokesman said, were from the Port Arthur area.

Cannon said he spotted an oil slick at least 50 miles long drifting in a northwesterly direction, well off the coast.

Expect Problems

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 37-year-old divorcee and mother of three. I am deeply in love with a 50-year-old man who is kind, gentle and considerate and wants to marry me. He is genuinely fond of my children and they of him.

Now, the problem: He's a Roman Catholic priest who is leaving the priesthood soon. He assures me that the decision to leave was made before we became emotionally involved, and I believe him.

I know that many men leave the priesthood every year, but I do not know anyone whose advice I could seek concerning the problems I may face in marrying an ex-priest. I wonder about the censure of family and friends, and his possible resentment eventually of having given up a 22-year vocation for a ready-made family.

Perhaps you, or some of your readers could offer some advice. If I seem overly cautious, it's because I have one marital failure behind me and I want to do everything possible to insure a successful marriage the second time around.

ANXIOUS

DEAR ANXIOUS: You can expect the same problems encountered by any other 37-year-old woman with a ready-made family who marries a 50-year-old bachelor. Plus others. Even tho he may not have left the priesthood to marry you (and a divorced woman, yet!) many will say he did.

Much will depend on where you live. Ex-priests who marry find it easier to make a new life in a new community. Wherever you go, you can expect subtle snubs and cutting remarks. You will lose some old friends because your husband "deserted his calling" and broke his vows. And you will win some new friends for the courage and honesty you have shown. Your former good friends will remain good friends.

Priests are usually sensitive, highly motivated and accustomed to discipline, and will work to make a marriage succeed, but I advise you to proceed with caution, and give him time to adjust to his new life before you say, "I do." I wish you luck.

DEAR ABBY: What does "B. Y. O. B." mean at the bottom of an invitation?

PUDGE

DEAR PUDGE: If it's a drinkin' party, it means Bring Your Own Bottle. If it's a prayin' party, it means Bring Your Own Bible.

DEAR ABBY: "NO DUNKER" griped about the barbaric, uncivilized new social custom of serving chip dips and fondue. She said it was unsanitary and unhealthy for everyone to dip into and eat out of one large communal pot!

We, "The Barbaric Naval Advisors of Viet Nam," would appreciate it if NO DUNKER would gather up all the half-eaten chips and leftover dips and fondue and send it over here. We eat out of a communal pot 365 days a year and nobody has caught anything from the pot yet.

"ADVISOR TEAM 159"

DEAR ABBY: Fondue was originated by the Swiss, and everyone knows what a clean and cultured people the Swiss are, so "NO DUNKER," who called Fondue parties "unsanitary and barbaric" doesn't know what she's talking about.

In the first place, the long fork is used only for cooking, and at no time does it go into the mouth. Each person has his own cooking fork and eating fork, so where is the danger of germs? I'm glad you told "NO DUNKER" to stay home.

LOVES FONDUE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Karen Coffey Weds Thomas Clausi Here

St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Karen R. Coffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Coffey, 23 Coffey Place, Kingston, to Thomas M. Clausi of Bayonne, N. J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Clausi, 95 Florence Street, Kingston, on Sunday, Mar. 21.

The Rev. Alfred R. Pizzuto officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, and Robert Charlesworth, soloist, provided traditional wedding selections. Gold vases of white gladioli and lime green chrysanthemums decorated the altar, and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an empire gown of peau de soie and bead encrusted re-embroidered lace. Motifs of lace enhanced the long sleeves and trimmed the tubular train. She wore a lace petal cap with pearl crystal trim, with a four tier veil of French illusion, and carried a Colonial nosegay of white bridal roses, baby's breath, and English ivy.

Jennifer Ferraro of Kingston served as maid of honor in a floor length Victorian gown of navy blue and white, trimmed with lime green sash and covered satin buttons. She wore a lime green Juliet cap, with a navy veil, and carried a colonial nosegay of lime pompons and baby's breath, with navy streamers.

Attendants were Miss Patricia Coffey, sister of the bride, Miss Kathy Boyce, and Miss

Susan Clausi, sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were styled identically to that of the maid of honor's. They wore lime Juliet caps, with lime veils, and carried colonial nosegays of lime pompons and baby's breath, with lime bows and streamers.

Miss Colleen Jordan, niece of the bride, of Rosendale, served as flower girl in a floor length gown of lime, with navy sash and satin buttons, styled by the bride's mother, identically to those of the other attendants.

Joseph F. Clausi of Port Ewen served as best man for his cousin. Ushers were John Secreto and Frank Tiano of Kingston, and James Nardi of Tampa, Fla.

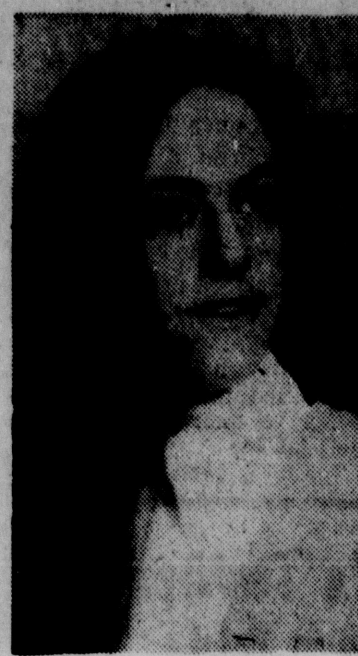

A reception for 175 guests was held at the Walnut Grove, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Europe, the bride selected a navy blue pants suit and coat, and navy accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, and is a junior at State University at New Paltz. The bridegroom is a graduate of Kingston High School, and received a BS in Chemical Engineering from North Carolina State University, and is employed by I.C.I. America of Stamford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Clausi will reside in Richmond, Va.

Karen L. Norton Is Bride-Elect

KAREN L. NORTON (Lakeside Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Norton of 106 Spring Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Louise, to Donald Francis Brott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Brott of Lake Katrine.

Miss Norton, a 1969 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by New York Telephone Company.

Her fiancé, an alumnus of Kingston High School, class of 1967, attended Ulster County Community College, and is employed as an engineering technician for New York State Department of Transportation.

A spring, 1972 wedding is planned.

Special Classes, Events Planned At Kingston YWCA Starting Tuesday

An Expectant Parents Class is scheduled to begin Tuesday at YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, for seven weeks. The class, under the guidance of the Ulster County Health Department, starts at 7 p.m. The program will include prenatal care, diet, labor and delivery, layette safety and equipment, infant nutrition, care of the newborn, growth and development in the first year, a film and a tour of the hospital.

For those interested in photography, starting Saturday, Apr. 3 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. a photography class will be taught by Tobey Carey for six weeks. It will include the taking and development of pictures with instruction on the do's and don'ts of photography. Persons must supply their own camera and register before March 31.

"April Fool" is just around the corner and YWCA is planning a special party for the event. On April 17, from 1 to 4 p.m., there will be a Teen Party for all girls who are members of YWCA. There will be an original hat or poster contest and awards will be given. A small admission fee will be charged.

On April 24 Y-Teens will take a bus trip to New York to see the Broadway play "Story Theater." The bus will leave the YWCA at 9:30 a.m. for the 2 p.m. performance and leave the city at 6:30 p.m. Cost includes transportation, theatre tickets and dinner. All reservations and money must be in by April 7.

State Federation of Music Clubs to Meet In Kingston for Spring Meeting in May

The spring meeting of the New York State Federation of Music Clubs will be held in Kingston, N. Y., on May 7 and 8 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Designated chairman of the event, which will bring people from all parts of the State into this area, is Mrs. Henry Millonig of 89 Clinton Avenue, this city.

Mrs. Millonig, who has served the Musical Society of Kingston since 1931, was recently named a member of the Board of Directors by the New York State Federation. An accomplished pianist, she has performed in countless recitals for private and organizational gatherings. Her own five children learned stringed and wind instruments, interpretative dance, voice, piano and organ.

In 1955, Mrs. Millonig became active in the National Association for Music Therapy giving lectures and demonstrations.

Mrs. Millonig told The Freeman the Spring Board Session will begin on Friday, May 7 with a tour of historic sites at 10:30 a.m. Lunch will be served at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 12 with a board of directors' meeting slated for 1 p.m. A reception and dinner is planned for 6:30 p.m. followed by a dance in the Crystal Room at 7:30.

Breakfast, board meetings, lunch and a musical and tea will be the order of the day for Saturday, May 8. The musical program and tea will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos R. Newcombe, Manor Lake, Kingston. Mrs. Newcombe is past president of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, Ulster County Council. Reservations are now being taken by Mrs. Millonig.

Federation Facts
New York City played an important part in the pioneer planning of the National Federation of Music Clubs which was founded in 1898. The Federation of Music Clubs was formed with its objective to create and inspire a higher ideal of musicianship and to encourage and stimulate the desire for musical expression in the home and in the community, and to foster the appreciation of music of all kinds.

To this end the founders began building interest throughout the state by encouraging the formation of music clubs, singing societies and choruses in towns, villages and cities.

The State Federation has many projects. One of them right now is collecting musical instruments which will replace ones wrecked during serious riots some months ago in the prison of The Tombs. The prison Chapel was destroyed along with the library and all music instruments. Mrs. Millonig has offered to collect these instruments from donors anywhere in Ulster County.

The New York Federation of Music Clubs has also announced the availability of Summer Music Scholarships.

Five scholarships of $75 each will be awarded to talented young students between the ages of 12 and 16 years. Those interested in applying should contact Mrs. Millonig for an application form. All applications together with three letters of recommendation must be received by April 15.

The New York Federation is a philanthropic organization composed of music groups and individuals, all of whom care enough for the art of music to lend their support to our efforts. Through these music groups and individuals, who are the very backbone of music in this country, many Federation activities are channeled. The state organization supports itself by very modest yearly dues, one-half of which is retained by the State, and by contributions and incidental earnings from musical and other activities. Officers, directors and chairmen contribute their services to the cause of music and give much of their time, energy and means to this rewarding work. During the long history of both the national and state organizations this has been a matter of proud record.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

The humor magazines are disappearing from the colleges. The Princeton Tiger, the Harvard Lampoon, the Columbia Jester, and many others are either on their last legs or have folded up altogether. To the anxious undergraduate nothing seems funnier any more. Of all the things that are said to be wrong with the universities, this seems the most significant.

Complaints about the universities are legion. The best teachers don't teach but are engaged in research. A university education is too expensive, yet rich donors don't want to make up the difference between what the students pay and what the plant costs to operate. Admission rules are too strict; or they are not strict enough—anybody can get in. Not enough attention is paid to black students or women or current politics or the current war or the disaster of the cities. So let's have courses in African History or Abortion and Divorce or the last Presidential campaign, or slums I have known. If the students don't want to be really serious, since we have to have students or we can't run the place, let's give them the Modern Novel, or Dissension Among the Movie Critics, or practical courses like Hair Styling for Men: Something that really relates.

What this adds up to is that the university too often is becoming a glorified vocational school. We have not yet reached the point where you go to college to learn plumbing; you apprentice yourself to a plumber and learn from him. (Of course for all I know there may be Plumbing I-II, given on Mon., Wed., Fri., at 10). But if you want to get a job on a newspaper you go to Journalism School although when you have graduated you will still have to learn the day by day routine of the Police Blotter or the City Room.

A student who wanted to learn plumbing could still go to college. If it was a good college, he could learn how to think, how to use his mind; he could learn what men have thought, the best men over the centuries. He might be surprised to learn that the problems of today are old problems and have been dealt with over and over. After he graduated, he could learn plumbing. It is not certain that he would be a better plumber, although he might. It is pretty certain that he would be a better man.

It is possible that the riots which still plague the university are caused less by the Vietnam war or the plight of the ghettos than by the students' awareness that the universities don't measure up. They are hollow, they have soft places you can poke your finger in, they aren't doing their job. And coming out for the team or managing the senior dance or running the annual show doesn't seem to fill the void, any more than being editor of the funny paper.

The average young person is a combination of laziness and enormous energy; he wants to learn, especially if what he learns is worth knowing. The attempts of students to introduce "meaningful" courses, and the acquiescence of the faculty in such matters, are pathetic. Neither knows what he does, though the faculty should. But if this sort of frivolous approach to education goes on too long we can expect the universities to decline and the great library, the classrooms, the laboratories could become, like the great cathedrals, places for tourists to visit and politely marvel at.

FREE SCHOOL LUNCHES

School districts which participate in the National School Lunch program or which use donated foods from the USDA should now be participating in the serving of free or reduced price meals (maximum of 20¢) to all needy children, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist. This became mandatory by law on January 1, 1971. Although the provision of free lunches was always a requirement of the National School program, it was never strongly enforced. Now, school districts must act to adapt their local school lunch policies and have them approved by the state. Failure to comply will lead to the loss of federal funds and commodities for all school lunches. A February 5 report from the USDA indicated that 56 schools failed to submit approved policy statements and federal funding was terminated.

One of the most difficult requirements of the revised policies is that of devising a method of non-discrimination or non-segregation of the free lunch children from other children in the school system. This is easier to describe on paper than it is to carry out in real life. One reason for the difficulty is the further requirement that schools keep strict count of the number of children receiving free lunches each month.

State educational agencies estimate that the number of needy children eligible for free and reduced price lunches in the nearly 78,000 schools which participate in the National School Lunch Program in the United States, might total as many as 7.8 million children.

As of February, 1971, the New York State Education Department has approved revised policies for 972 school districts (675 public, 297 private and parochial schools) sponsoring lunch programs.

Have school districts in your area complied with the law? Some school boards seem to need more pressure than others to realize that any child has a right to be fed.

Questions about the break-fast and/or lunch programs, about compliance with the law, or about proposed changes in your local school lunch policies should be forwarded to the State Education Department, School Food Management Supervision Office, Albany, N. Y. 12224.

Potatoes

Americans are eating more potatoes once again. In 1969, Americans ate 118.2 pounds of potatoes apiece, compared with 108.4 pounds in 1960.

The increase in potato use is attributed largely to the new forms of potato products—including frozen and dehydrated varieties.

Pounds of potatoes eaten per capita:

	1960	1969
Fresh	8.47	63.4
Processed	17.1	30.3
Frozen	6.8	24.5

50 years ago, potato consumption averaged 150 pounds per person. Now, potato consumption is slowly climbing again.

Kingston Boys' Club... 25 Years of Community Service

VOLUNTEERS GUIDE ARTS AND CRAFTS CLASS

GAMES—A POPULAR PASTIME
(Freeman photos by Kruh)

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON
No girls allowed. With all due respect to women's lib, et al, the Kingston Boys' Club this week will celebrate its 25th year of continuous service to the young men of the Kingston community.

The club was founded as a gathering place for the boys of Kingston in 1946, and since that time has enjoyed a popularity and prosperity that can only be experienced by the one place where little sisters fear to tread.

But this week is special; so special, in fact, that for the first time in its history the Kingston Boys' Club will decree honorary membership upon a girl.

This landmark, however, is just one of many special events planned for the silver anniversary week of the Kingston Boys' Club. And all the activities will be held in honor of that day in 1946 when the Boys' Club first met in a tiny art studio on Broadway.

That studio no longer exists; it made way for the present Broadway railroad crossing. A host of other buildings, too, have passed with time, but the Boys' Club remains a fixture in the Kingston area, and it gets stronger every year.

Those first years were rough ones for the Kingston Boys' Club, but early interest and financial support by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association and the Junior League of Kingston helped to sustain its efforts.

A significant milestone in the history of the Boys' Club was reached in 1948, when the late Hon. Judge John M. Cashin called together a group of local civic leaders who, in turn, formed the Club's first board of directors. In May, 1949, the Boys' Club became incorporated in the State of New York as a non-profit educational organization.

That same year, the Boys' Club held its first formal fund raising drive and in November, 1952 qualified for membership in Boys' Clubs of America.

Throughout those early years, and up to the present day, a group of adult "sustaining members" have provided financial help to keep the program in operation.

Since 1955, however, most of the area's residents have chipped in to assure continued financial stability for the Boys' Club. It was in that year that the club became one of the charter members of the Ulster County Community Chest, now known as the United Way of Ulster County. The club, today, receives about 75 per cent of its yearly operating budget through individual contributions.

Because the people of Kingston and Ulster County have been responsible for the success of the Boys' Club over the years, the activities planned for this week are as much for the people as they are for the more than 300 regular members of the club.

The silver anniversary week actually began yesterday, with an open house at the club on Greenkill Avenue. A large group of parents, citizens and former club members toured the facility and met the boys and their leaders.

Today the tables were turned as a large contingent of club members visited shopping areas throughout the city to meet the residents of Kingston.

Sisters of club members will ranging from basketball and chess to piano lessons and photography, will all receive their due recognition.

What does the second quarter century hold in store for the Kingston Boys' Club. More of the same, said Holochuk, hopefully. The executive director is optimistic that the facilities will be expanded, the membership will increase and the community will pledge its continued support.

Special

Tonight, the scheduled event is a basketball spotshoot contest, which will climax four weeks of practice for the youthful members.

Tuesday is Friendship Day at the Boys' Club, and that includes everyone — even girls. The invisible "No Girls Allowed" sign will be removed and the club's facilities will be available to all the members and their friends throughout the entire day. A series of "Silver Anniversary Tournaments" will be held that night for the members.

The celebration will end Saturday with a "25th Anniversary Carnival," beginning at 1 p.m. on Greenkill Avenue in front of the club. The boys and city residents will not be the only persons recognized during this silver anniversary week. John Holochuk, who is celebrating his 15th year as director of the Boys' Club; his assistant Carlo Castiglione and the handful of volunteers who give their free time unselfishly to guide the youths in a myriad of activities

Stone Cold Monroe Turns Hot for Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
You can't keep a good man down . . . even if you knock him out.
Case in point: Earl Monroe, the Baltimore Bullets' gun-quickness guard.
Monroe was knocked cold by an errant elbow in the second quarter but came back after intermission to score 23 of his 29 points as the Bullets pasted Philadelphia 111-103 in the National Basketball Association playoffs Sunday.

"Every time we needed a key shot, he made it," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue as his Bullets took a 2-1 lead in the Eastern Division semifinals.

In other NBA playoff games, Sunday, the New York Knicks trimmed Atlanta 110-95 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven semifinals and Chicago battered Los Angeles 106-98 and cut the Lakers' lead to 2-1 in their best-of-seven Western Division semis.

The league's other Western semifinal series continues today with San Francisco visiting Milwaukee which holds a 1-0 lead by virtue of its 107-96 victory Saturday night.

In Saturday's other playoff game, Atlanta bounced New York 113-104.
After Philadelphia rallied behind Hal Greer to come back from a 10-point, fourth quarter deficit and pulled with 99-97, Monroe scored six straight points and Gus Johnson added a field goal to make it 107-97. Baltimore Greer led Philadelphia with 28 points.

Walt Frazier scored 29 points, igniting a second half comeback and also made some key steals to help New York beat Atlanta.

Pro Draft Has Sus-Spence

NEW YORK (AP)—The pro basketball war and the Spencer Haywood case have thrown added suspense into today's National Basketball Association college draft.
Cleveland won the coin toss last week with Portland for the No. 1 pick, but the question was not so much who the Cavaliers would select, but who is left to be picked after all the behind scenes negotiating by the rival American Basketball Association.

wood now belonged to the Seattle SuperSonics.
Haywood, signed by Denver of the ABA after his sophomore year in college, jumped Denver for Seattle last January, and the NBA ruled that the Sonics could not have him because his college class does not graduate until June, although he has been a pro two years.

But after a federal judge in Los Angeles ruled against the NBA decision, the NBA allowed Seattle to keep the controversial star forward and fined the club $200,000.

Buffalo, however, asked the judge last week if it could sign Haywood, and the judge refused to say yes or no.

Billy and Bonnies Rescue NIT Status

NEW YORK (AP)—It was the kind of week that had fans bemoaning the loss of the cheerleaders. Then came the saviours—St. Bonaventure and Bill Chamberlain.

The 34th annual National Invitational Tournament was being called a collection of losers—teams that failed to make the NCAA national championships.

And for most of the games in Madison Square Garden, the lack of super teams or superstars was evident. The show was stolen by a high-spirited bunch from Hawaii.

Bobby's Rest Comes to End

NEW YORK (AP)—The vacation is officially over for Boston's Bobby Orr.

Glen Sather's third-period goal was Sunday's winner—a goal that was hotly disputed by the Bruins, who claimed he had kicked it into the net.

The Rainbows, making their debut in post-season play, arrived in the Big Apple with pineapples, leis, orchids, "hot pants" basketball suits and hula-girl cheerleaders that had the fans more interested in the intermissions.

The Bruins' superstar defenseman will be back fulltime for Wednesday night's game in Montreal and it may be some measure of this young man's importance to the National Hockey League's East Division champions to note that Boston lost four straight games when he became a part-timer.

The Rangers, on the other hand, have lost just three games in the last 17 and are playing their best hockey of the season right now. And that's just the way Coach Emile Francis wants it.

Then Hawaii was eliminated in the quarter-finals and the fans wondered: "What now?" Well, there were the Bonnies, who had to struggle to turn back the Rainbows. Most observers expected them to dispose of Georgia Tech and meet Atlantic Coast Conference power North Carolina in the championship.

The latest defeat was a 2-1 decision to the Rangers in New York Sunday night. Appearing only on power plays, Orr played just six minutes, 55 seconds and managed just two shots.

In Sunday's other games, Montreal edged Chicago 2-1, Detroit shaded Toronto 2-1, Vancouver routed California 11-5, Buffalo topped Minnesota 4-2 and Philadelphia turned back Pittsburgh 3-1.

It didn't appear Tech and North Carolina could match that game's excitement—and they didn't. Chamberlain did it all by himself.

The Bruins, who'll be meeting Montreal in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs which begin one week from Wednesday, face the Canadiens twice in their final three games and obviously don't want to look watered down against them.

The 6-foot-6 junior who started his basketball training in the streets of New York's Harlem, scampared away with the tourney's Most Valuable Player honors.

The soft spoken star repeatedly brought the crowd to its feet with twisting, spinning lay-ups, and high, hanging jumpers as he dashed to a personal collegiate high of 34 points and directed a flurry of fast breaks that gave the Tar Heels an easy 84-66 victory.

Condors Sign Howard Porter

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association said early Monday they have signed 6-foot-8 Villanova star Howard Porter, the Most Valuable Player in the NCAA basketball tournament.

Mark Binstein, operations director of the Condors, said in Miami Beach that details of the signing would be announced here later Monday.

Porter was the Condors' first draft choice.

JUST THE BALL, JUST THE BALL — Los Angeles Lakers' Jerry Sloan in first period of third game Sunday of best of seven series in NBA playoffs. Bulls defeated the Lakers, 106 to 98 for their first victory against two losses in the series with the Lakers. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

UCLA's Old Master Plays Game to Win

HOUSTON (AP)—UCLA Coach John Wooden had more in mind than slowing down Villanova Saturday when he sent his NCAA champion Bruins into a stall game that produced a fifth consecutive national title.

UCLA has more often been the intended victim of slow-down play to stop their run and gun style, but Wooden wanted Villanova to come out of its zone defense and the stall was the answer, even if it almost backfired.

"I was hoping they wouldn't come out and we would hold the ball all day," Wooden said of the "sometimes unpopular" freeze tactic that helped the Bruins to a 68-62 victory over Villanova.

"I didn't think they could beat us man-to-man," Wooden said. "We went to the slowdown to bring them out of their zone defense and it worked. Yes, it did hurt our momentum but that's a gamble you have to take."

While Wooden has long been an apostle of speedup methods in college basketball, he didn't hesitate to go to the slowdown when he needed it to win the Bruins seventh NCAA title in eight years.

Losing coach Jack Kraft said UCLA's stall helped the runner-up Wildcats get back in the game in the second half when twice they cut a 12-point deficit to three points.

Player Makes It Two Straight; Cops Airlines Title

LATEST DANCE CRAZE — South Africa's Gary Player goes in the air as his ball heads for the cup on the 17th green after Player had to shoot out of the woods. Player missed the shot but won the $200,000 National Airlines Open. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

MIAMI (UPI)—Gary Player — five feet, eight inches of wire dressed in black — has a chance to become the first golfer to win three tournaments in a row since Arnold Palmer did it way back in 1962.

Player charged through the middle holes in the final round of the $200,000 National Airlines Open Golf Tournament Sunday to win it by two strokes over Lee Trevino.

A week ago, Player won the Greater Jacksonville Open in a playoff with Hal Underwood and next week he plays in the Greater Greensboro, N.C., Open, where he is defending champion.

But Player, although he admits to consistency, isn't optimistic about his chances next week.

"I have too much respect for the game and for the competition," he said. He added he would feel better if the holes were longer on the Greensboro course.

And if he wins next week, he's even more pessimistic about winning the Masters for his fourth straight — which would be a first in tour golf.

"That's a Jack Nicklaus benefit when you leave it so wide open," he said, referring to the long-hitting PGA champion and the wide fairways on the Augusta, Ga., course.

Altogether, the 160-pound South African believes four, or even three, wins in a row are "expecting a bit too much, the way things are today."

But he won two in a row for the first time since Palmer won the Heritage Classic and the Danny Thomas Open in December of 1969.

"I think it's time for him to go home," quipped runnerup Trevino after playing the final round with Player on the par 72, 6,970-yard Country Club of Miami course.

Player beat Trevino by two strokes with a 68 to Trevino's 69 in the final round. Player went into the round a stroke ahead of Trevino and finished with a 14-under-par 274, two strokes in front of the flamboyant Mexican-American.

Young Jerry McGee, a native of the Ohio hill country, shot a six-under-par 66 including a blistering first nine 31 for 277 Jack Nicklaus is spending these on the 10th.

Player started slowly, sinking a birdie on the second hole on a 25-foot putt but three-putting for a bogey on the fourth. But then he strung birdies on the eighth, ninth and 10th and on the 14th, 15th and 16th. His big putts were 20-footers on the eighth and 15th, and a 15-footer on the 10th.

Crampton was tied with Player for the lead going into the round but faltered to a par-eight, ninth and 10th and on the 14th, 15th and 16th. His big putts were 20-footers on the eighth and 15th, and a 15-footer on the 10th.

Slim Joe Torre Cracks Three

By United Press International

Joe Torre may start a diet epidemic in the major leagues. Torre shed 25 pounds before last season and had one of his finest campaigns, batting .325 with 21 homers and 100 runs batted in. The new streamlined Torre, who has dropped from 235 two years ago to 195 this season, continued to show that slim is beautiful as he hit three home runs and drove in five runs Sunday to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 13-2 rout of the Minnesota Twins.

Torre, who now has hit six home runs this spring, hit a pair off Luis Tiant in the first and third innings and added the other off Jim Kaat in the sixth.

Bob Gibson turned in five scoreless innings for the Cardinals, allowing only four hits, striking out five and walking none.

Wes Parker's eighth-inning double drove in Willie Davis from first with the tie-breaking run as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 3-1 and Juan Marichal turned in five scoreless innings as the San Francisco Giants beat the California Angels 2-0.

Mike Epstein hit a two-run homer and shortstop Toby Harrah started a triple play and two double plays to help the Washington Senators beat the Kansas City Royals 4-2 and Ernie Banks' bases-loaded double and run-producing single lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 15-4 romp past the Cleveland Indians.

Dave Robinson doubled in two runs and scored another on Ollie Brown's single in the eighth inning to boost the San Diego Padres to a 6-4 triumph over the Oakland Athletics and Dave May's double and two singles helped the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Tokyo Lotte Orions 7-2.

Mike Lum's tie-breaking single in the seventh inning—his third hit of the game—gave the Atlanta Braves a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles while Denny Lemaster and Gary Waslewski combined for a two-hitter to lead an All-Star squad to a 1-0 triumph over the Montreal Expos.

Andretti, Ferrari Answer Car Question

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—The question has been officially settled that America's Formula A cars aren't in the same class with Europe's prestigious Formula 1 car machines.

Diminutive Mario Andretti, the famous Italian immigrant, said there was never any question as far as he was concerned.

"There's no question they have the edge and I think they're going to keep it,"

Andretti said Sunday after driving his swift Ferrari 312-B to an impressive victory in the inaugural Quaker Grand Prix.

The $288,900 event over Ontario's 3.2-mile road course was billed as the United States vs. Europe. The 31-year-old winner from Nazareth, Pa., said it was a mismatch from the day the promoters dreamed up the race.

"It wasn't fair to compare the U.S. against Europe in this race," Andretti offered. "Our boys didn't have a chance. No way. Put the Unser boys (Al and Bobby) and A. J. (Foyt) in a Formula 1 and give them time. They'll do some racing."

Of the 13 Formula A racers in the starting field of 30, Ron Grable of Mountain View, Calif., turned in the top finish—seventh—in a Lola-Chevrolet.

Winner of the South African Grand Prix for Ferrari March 6, Andretti walked off with $38,250 after starting the day in 12th place.

YMCA Games Set Tonight

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (UPI)—Sickler's Delivery of Kingston shuttles back here tonight to pickup its place in the Hudson Valley YMCA basketball tournament with a semi-final game against Juick's Five, minus Charlie Yelverton.

Fellicello's Pipers will meet defending champion Savino's Apparel in the opening game of round two at 7:15 p.m. in the Eastman Park facility.

Coch Rich Amato's Sickler's quintet wallowed Saugerties A's to reach the semis here and Saturday knocked off the Senators in the Kingston tournament to advance in that event.

Eastern Fleet Scores Victory

By The Associated Press

The famed devil's red silks of Calumet Farm might be back in Kentucky come Derby day. If they are, they will be aboard Eastern Fleet.

Eastern Fleet cruised into the Kentucky Derby picture Saturday by winning the $137,800 Florida Derby by 1 1/4 lengths over Peter Kissel's Executioner at Gulfstream Park.

Calumet trainer Reggie Cornell said Eastern Fleet would go to Keeneland for the Blue Grass Stakes, the final major prep for the May 1 Derby, if Mrs. Grace Markey, owner of Calumet, approves.

Calumet, located in Kentucky, has not raced in the state since its Forward Pass finished second to Dancer's Image in the controversial Butozolidin Derby in 1968.

In another stakes for Derby-age colts, John M. Olin's Northfields held off Mrs. Joe W. Brown's List and won the $61,000 Louisiana Derby by a length at the New Orleans Fair Grounds.

Outsider Try Sheep, owned by Middle Ranch Farm, won the $82,000 San Luis Rey Handicap at Santa Anita. Sigmund Sommer's Never Bow took the $59,300 West Chester Stakes at Aqueduct and T.A. and J.E. Grissom's Rio Gravo scored in the $50,000 Oaklawn Handicap at Oaklawn Park in other rich features Saturday.

Sickler's, Road Runners Win KBT Openers

KINGSTON Coach Mike Perry has come up with a trio of formidable recruits for his 1971-72 Ulster Community College basketball team. That was the solid reaction of the hard core buffs who never miss Kingston Basketball Tournament action at the municipal auditorium.

Oh, yes, reports to the contrary, Perry will be back on the Stone Ridge campus as basketball coach next season.

Sickler's Delivery, with old UCCC hands and sensational Wade Pittman of Newburgh Academy in the lineup, won as they pleased, 103-85, over the Kingston Senators.

Pittman, who electrified the small crowd when he got into the game a bit late, led with 24 points. Stan Henderson, scoring ace in the Saugerties League, hit 22.

There was Glenn Berry, UCCC's most recent all-arounder, who was highly visible with 19 points. Rod Chando, member of another Senator dynasty, hit 13. Cliff Weeks 17 and Gary McDonald.

All very important and impressive. But all the action and interest was in the opposing lineup of the Senators. Harry Jackson (19) and Walter Lloyd (16) accounted for 35 points.

The other member of the trio — Nelson Marcelle — contributed 14 points, as the Road Runners of Kingston edged Dutchman of Poughkeepsie, 79-76, in the last two minutes of play.

What about the new UCCC trio? Well, they're not too big as basketball sizes go these days. But they can (a) shoot (b) are brilliant ball handlers (c) fast and mobile. In brief, they will do when complemented with the remainder of the 1971-72 UCCC cast.

The UCCC coach took no active part in the proceedings Saturday night but his presence was highly visible and he looked like a man who was pleased with what he saw.

The Sickler squad, handled by Richie Amato, who has a winning habit in the KBT, are picked to do it again.

In a free wheeling game (only 25 fouls between the two teams) Sickler's were challenged a few times in the first half but led 53-43 at halftime and controlled the action after the recess.

The Road Runner-Dutchman game was ragged in spots but never lacked for excitement. The score was tied eight times, the last at 74-74, with 2:20 left to play.

Curtis McBride tied it at 74-74. John Van Benschoten hit the first half of a 1-and-1 situation to put the Runners ahead, 75-74. Marcelle added another and Tom Titus drilled a field to make it 78-74 with 43 seconds

Arnold Cole narrowed it to 78-76 with 18 seconds left and was fouled by Marcelle, but blew the 1-and-1 and a chance to tie the score. Gary Flowers closed out the scoring with a free throw.

Titus was high scorer with 25 points. Linnell Marshall of UCCC added 17 and Marcelle 14. Melvin Motley led Dutchmen with 21. Prentiss Thompson potted 21 and Arnold Cole had 18.

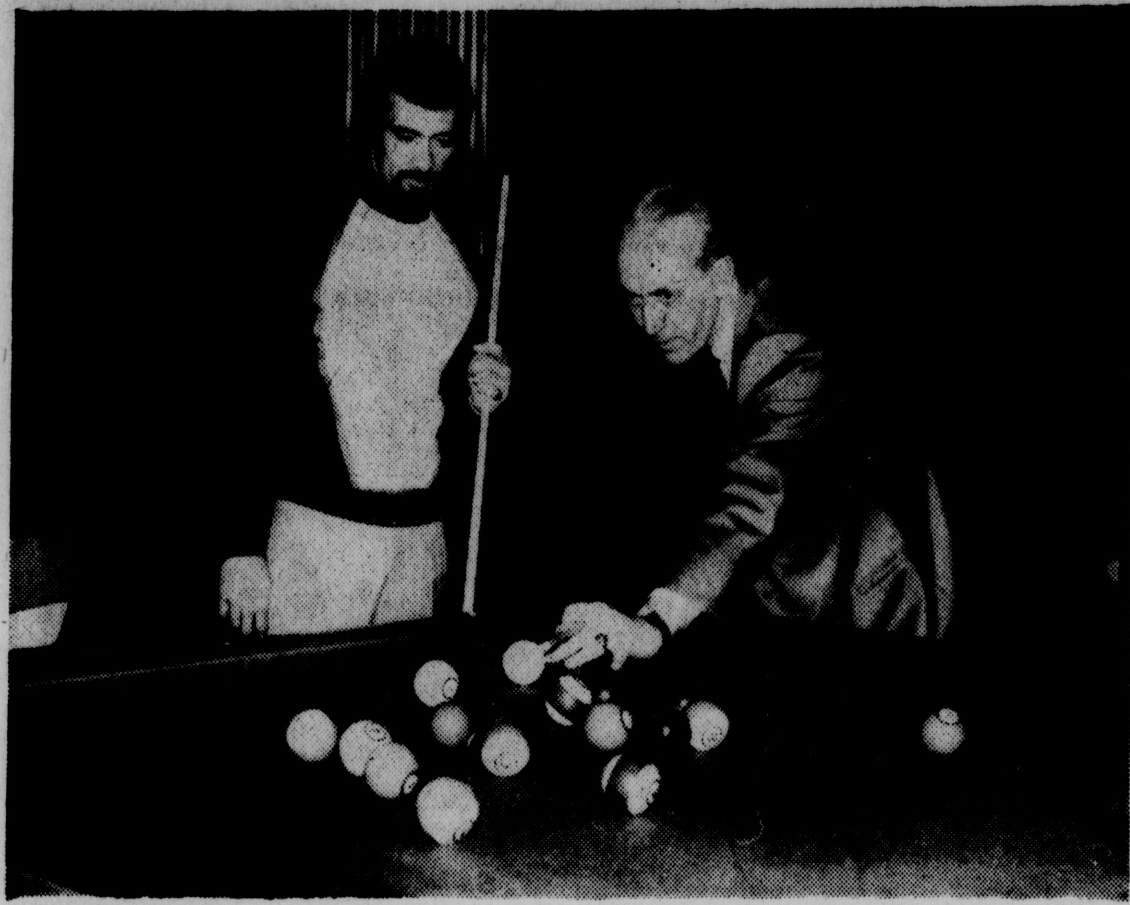

SIDEBARS: Jim Massa, the Sports Information Director at R.P.L., was present but only as a spectator. Although he has entered teams for years, Jim was shut out this year because of a misunderstanding . . . Opening night crowd was sparse, as usual . . . But attendance will get better, despite the lateness of the season. Any team with Glenn Barry and Wade Pittman on the same side is worth watching anytime . . . Schedule resumes Thursday, with DeMico Motors trying to fool Oreos at 7:30 p.m. and Rosendale All Stars taking on Pipers of Marlborough in the 8:30 contest.

Crane Runs '104' In Local Match

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON Irving Crane of Rochester, the six-time World Pocket Billiard Champion who was in town for a couple of Sunday exhibitions at Chappy's Golden Cue, only vaguely recalled his first appearance in Kingston in 1937.

He had just captured his first world title and the old Kaslich Billiard Parlor was one of his initial stops on exhibition tour.

Kingston was in the American Basketball League in those days and the crack Philadelphia Sphas, forerunners of the 76ers were in town — game time 9 p.m.

Crane was scheduled at 100 points and 7:30 p.m.

"Make it quick, Mr. Crane," the proprietor, Nick Kaslich admonished. "The boys want to catch the basketball game." Crane responded beautifully, clicking off two consecutive runs of 50 to blank his opponent, 100-0, and everybody got to the game on time.

The tall, professional looking Rochester Cadillac dealer didn't make it in two innings in either match Sunday, but he convinced a couple of fair sized crowds that he still retains the elegant touch and position play that has made him a living legend in the pocket billiard world.

In the afternoon match, he had to rally from a 137-33 deficit to overcome Ricky Wright of Poughkeepsie, 150-137. At night, he never gave local ace William (Billy) Costello a chance, bolting from the gate with a run of 79 and adding other strings of 29 and 26 for an easy 150-44 victory.

Now in his fifth decade of championship play, Crane says he isn't playing as much as he used to "but I have been winning steadily. I've won the last three major tournaments I competed in," he noted. One was the 1968 U.S. Open in Chicago in which he ran 150-and-out against Joe Balsis in the finals.

Crane's timeless skills were never more in evidence than during that first run of 78 points, as the Road Runners of Kingston edged Dutchman of Poughkeepsie, 79-76, in the last two minutes of play.

What about the new UCCC trio? Well, they're not too big as basketball sizes go these days. But they can (a) shoot (b) are brilliant ball handlers (c) fast and mobile. In brief, they will do when complemented with the remainder of the 1971-72 UCCC cast.

against Costello. His break shot after the first rack left him a tight leave and only possible shot — a combination of the 9 in the rack. He executed it beautifully. Midway through the run, he found himself with a long, difficult downable shot off the 8-ball and made it. His string ended when he overpowered a break shot and choked the object ball in a corner pocket.

Costello, suffering from a cold and obviously not up to recent form when he ran 68 and 112 back to back, could do no better than a 19 against the old master.

Wright, one of the best young players in the area, gave Crane conniptions in the early going, pocketing runs of 28, 27 and then 75. Suddenly, Crane found himself trailing 131-27. Then he went to work, nursing the cue ball beautifully, executing difficult cut shots until he reached 104 and a tie game at 131-131. The string ended when The Deacon hung up a ball in a corner pocket.

"He's one of the best young players I've seen in a long time," Crane praised the Bridge City youth. "I'd have to see him more to decide if he is professional material."

Crane ended both exhibitions with a display of dazzling trick shots and fielded questions from the audience.

Raiders Take Sawyer Title

SAUGERTIES Ron Thomas scored 31 points as the Raiders beat Allen's Bus Line, 73-60, and captured the Saugerties Athletic Association regular season basketball crown for the second straight time Saturday.

The two teams came into the contest with identical 12-2 records, but after the Raiders spotted Allen's the first two points the winners took over and were never challenged seriously.

With Thomas canning the long ones and Rich Koegel and Jerry Hawkins performing well on all-around basis, the Raiders were able to maintain a comfortable lead of some ten points throughout the tilt.

The Raiders will meet fourth place Ferroxcube while Allen's takes on the Irish in league play off openers beginning Saturday at 1 p.m. in Donlon Auditorium.

The Irish nailed down the third spot in the league race by knocking off Ferroxcube, 100-84. Tim Murphy had 22 points for the winners, Pete Steinfurth led Ferroxcube with 23.

In the game involving two also-rans, Anchorage dragged Naccarato Insurance down into a last place tie by scoring a narrow 76-73 win. The teams finished the season with 4-11

Deak Attends Carter Confab

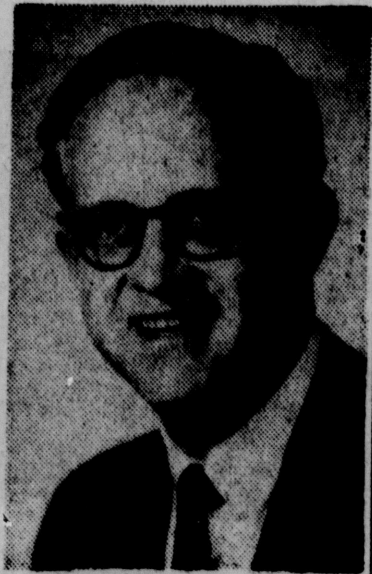

LAKE KATRINE Ronald B. Deak, Mary Carter Paint dealer whose store is located on Route 9W, Lake Katrine, attended the parent paint firm's recent seventh annual National Dealer Convention in Philadelphia, Pa. The two day session was one of three conducted in regionally located cities to accommodate more than 800 franchised Mary Carter retail paint dealers and company personnel now located in 46 states.

The retailers were presented with Mary Carter's merchandising and marketing programs for 1971, including the upcoming introduction of a complete new system of deep-tone and accent colors. A trade show and a seminar on the latest in paint technology were also held.

John R. Hesse, chairman of the board, and Joseph Affronti, president of the paint firm were speakers at the meeting, as well as other top executives with the company.

WALGREEN PROFITS CHICAGO, ILL. Walgreen Co. net profit and sales for its first fiscal quarter were the highest in company history, reported Charles R. Walgreen Jr., Board Chairman. One Dead, Eight Missing In Canandaigua Fire CANANDAIGUA, N. Y. (AP) — One man was dead and eight others missing following a fire that destroyed the 117-year-old Canandaigua Inn early today. At least 12 other persons were injured.

A spokesman at the Veterans Administration Hospital here said a man collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack a few hours after he escaped from the fire. Ontario County Detective Anthony Decere said, "I'm afraid there are victims buried beneath the rubble."

Police said the blaze was reported on the fourth floor of the building about 12:25 a.m. and that flames engulfed the top three floors within 20 minutes. "There must be bodies in there," a witness said. "They couldn't all have gotten out."

More than 150 firemen and equipment from communities as far away as Palmyra, 20 miles north, were called in. At the height of the four hour blaze flames were visible for almost ten miles.

Charles DeVillie, 56, an elevator operator and part-time handyman who lived on the third floor said he was awakened by a friend and escaped the smoke by climbing out a window and down the fire escape to the second floor.

An ambulance driver said most of the victims he saw were overcome by smoke, though one looked badly burned.

Thompson Memorial Hospital reported treating 12 persons, but said that none were critically injured.

At one time the inn was the social center of this Finger Lakes resort area. It was built in 1853 and refurbished in 1921 by Mrs. F.F. Thompson, of the locally prominent family, who then controlled it.

Many of the hotel's 70 rooms were occupied when the fire broke out. Some of the residents were said to be students at Finger Lakes Community College and recently discharged patients from the nearby Veterans Administration hospital.

A spokesman for the hospital said that a staff member at the scene made contact with most of the former patients and reported them "Okay."

A number of persons were rescued by ladder from the top floors and others were led down fire escapes to safety.

The three upper floors collapsed. The inn was in the center of Canandaigua, at Main and Ontario Streets, adjacent to the Ontario County Courthouse.

No dollar estimate was set on the loss.

Today's fire was the third major blaze at the inn in the last 13 years.

The building was extensively damaged on Feb. 24, 1958 and then again just five years and four days later. Police said firemen were called to the hotel Saturday to extinguish a mattress fire.

By morning only the walls remained of the structure. A large wooden cornice that ran around the roof-line fell through the first floor porch soon after flames reached it.

The three upper floors collapsed. The inn was in the center of Canandaigua, at Main and Ontario Streets, adjacent to the Ontario County Courthouse.

No dollar estimate was set on the loss.

Mohawk Stewardesses Will Return to Work

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI)—Mohawk systemwide operation April 25. Airlines moved another step closer to resuming service with announcement during the week-end of a back-to-work agreement with its 300 stewardesses. A company spokesman said the stewardesses were recalled as Mohawk resumes service April 14. It was not immediately known if any would be furloughed by the company's planned 20 per cent cutback in flights.

The agreement with the stewardesses, represented by the Air Line Pilots Association, left only about 15 flight dispatchers, represented by the Air Line Dispatchers Association, without a back-to-work accord in the five-month-old pilots' strike.

Meanwhile, the Utica-based carrier announced its reservation center in Syracuse is averaging 2,500 inquiries per day on flight restoration.

Russell V. Stephenson, Mohawk president, said the airline was "very pleased with customers' response" to the return-to-service announcement.

Mohawk will begin post-strike flight operations with 146 daily departures serving 21 airports, from Minneapolis-St. Paul to Boston and from Canada to Washington, on April 14.

Schedules will be increased to about 70 per cent of the total

Fire Engulfs Waterfront Block at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—An explosion and fire erupted on an Atlantic City dock early this morning, quickly engulfing an entire block of waterfront buildings and spreading to a vacant hotel.

Police and fire officials, who indicated the blaze may have been touched off by an arsonist, said winds whipped flames through a series of buildings attached to a commercial fishing pier, then pushed burning embers across a street to ignite one of the city's oldest hotels.

At least one commercial fishing boat also was set ablaze and was towed to sea by a Coast Guard vessel.

All available Atlantic City fire units were rushed to the scene as were several fire companies from surrounding communities and Coast Guard boats.

No injuries were reported in the fire, which continued to rage out of control more than two and a half hours after it broke out about 1:30 a.m.

Eyewitness accounts said an explosion preceded the fire and that a car was seen speeding from the scene moments after the blast.

Fire officials said burning embers quickly ignited the Bayview Hotel, a vacant four-story structure located across the street from the dock.

Battalion Chief Earl Jordan said the hotel was "practically a general alarm fire by itself."

Coast Guard vessels moved into the area and quickly began towing boats away. Only one vessel reportedly caught fire.

The blaze was at least the third multiple alarm fire in the city in less than 24 hours. On Sunday a fish market and a warehouse both were heavily damaged in separate fires.

Art Exhibit
At Paltz Bank

NEW PALTZ
An exhibit of paintings titled "Folds and Other Stripes," by Degan Evans, will be shown at the New Paltz Savings Bank today, through April 23.

She studied painting at the National Academy of Design, the Art Students League, the Ecole des Beaux Arts at Fontainebleau, the Grand Central Art School, and with Arshile Gorky and Hans Hoffman. She has had numerous one-woman exhibits.

A reception for her, open to the public, will be held in the bank's Community Room on April 4 from 3 to 5 p.m.

Antique Items
Being Displayed

A display of antique household items has been on view in Hurley School through the month of March. The items in the display are on loan from collections of J.P. Remensnyder, The Ulster County Historical Society, Mrs. Robert Kershaw, and Mrs. A. McGinnis.

The display includes pewter ware, stoneware, a churn, a shot measure for a muzzle-loader, and numerous other items.

The display was assembled to give the Hurley children an idea of the life style of their area about a century ago. Each of the items on display is authentic and originally from the Hurley area.

PROCLAMATION
THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
To the Sheriff of the County of Ulster
GREETING:

Whereas, a Trial Term of Supreme Court and Jail Delivery is to be held in and for the County of Ulster, at the Court House, in the City of Kingston, on Thursday, the 1st day of April, 1971.

We command you in pursuance of the provisions of Section 222-a of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in that case made and provided:

FIRST: That you summon the several persons who have been drawn in said County of Ulster, pursuant to law, to serve as Grand Jurors and Trial Jurors at the said Court to appear thereat.

SECOND: That you bring before the said Court all prisoners then being in the Jail of said County, together with all process and proceedings in any way concerning them in your hands as such Sheriff.

THIRD: That you make Proclamation, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-a of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognition or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquiry, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, on the first day of its sitting.

WITNESS, Hon. John T. Casey, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the Court House in the City of Kingston, this 18th day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand and seven hundred and seventy-one.

FRANCIS J. VOGT,
District Attorney of the County of Ulster

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make Proclamation that a term of Supreme Court of Ulster County and Jail delivery will be held at the Court House in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, the 1st day of April, 1971 at 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be then and there present, to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognition or otherwise are required to appear thereat; and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said Court, or who may have taken any inquiry, or the examination of any prisoner or witness are required to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations on to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to them shall pertain.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, March 30

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are nervous and restless and seem vulnerable to all kinds of changes whether you like them or not, but you can get some very good advice from an influential man who has many good ideas about how you can handle whatever arises which tests your patience and your capabilities. Show you are poised.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal morning for shopping and doing those errands you have been procrastinating about for some time. A good friend may be somewhat annoying today, but look only to the good side of this person. Don't argue.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Making additions to present property and assets gives you a feeling of greater well-being, but be optimistic about it. Plan a budget which will make the future less confusing. Social activities good tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Joining with persons you admire in recreations you like is possible at this time. Look for those who are progressive and get a better outlook for the future. Avoid spendthrifts.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can best handle those worries you have by following the suggestions of an influential person who has your interests at heart. Many situations arise to make you feel happier and more calm. Optimism tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't let go of trusted friends for new ones or you will regret it later, since they are very vital to your way of things at this time. Do some entertaining for it leads to goodwill for the future. Stay within limits of good taste.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Consulting with bigwigs opens the door to greater opportunity now, but don't try to criticize them in any way. Taking chances of any sort could ruin your reputation. Show that you are a wise person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go out to some new place with an intelligent friend to cement better relations, reach an excellent agreement. Clarifying certain ideas you have is easy just at this time. Listen carefully to details in conversations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) New arrangements need to be made with persons with whom you are engaged on a new project, and then excellent results ensue. Don't give up the ship—just keep working and all is fine. Show you have guts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) By entertaining a friend, you gain his or her favor with ease now. While enjoying each other's company an excellent new agreement can be reached. Show that you are discerning; have good common sense ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Carrying through with expectations of kin makes this a worthwhile instead of a disappointing day, p.m. for you. See what co-workers have to suggest, also. Combine efforts with vim and vigor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get on the constructive side of life and be with persons who know their business, can show you new ways of doing important things. Stop all that day-dreaming and get to work with a vengeance. Avoid emotional entanglements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Instead of criticizing those at home, be more willing to praise and encourage them and then you get excellent results. Arguments are usually a waste of energy that could be used constructively instead. Show that you have good sense.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fast-moving, fast-thinking young people, so be sure your progeny gets plenty of rest to prevent becoming a bundle of nerves early in life, and then there can be much success in this chart. Give the fine education desired, even if you sacrifice some, as parents. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! OFF AGAIN? (Q) I met this girl at a school dance. We dated for about two months. Then, through a stupid misunderstanding, we got the idea that we didn't want to date any more. So we broke up. We both went out with different people for a while, but nothing lasted.

Then a good friend of both of ours told me the girl wanted to date me again and I told our friend I also wanted to date her. Well, we got back together for a date and I thought we both enjoyed ourselves.

A week later her friend called me and told me that she didn't want to date any more. She didn't know why. What happened? My feelings are really hurt. I like this girl and want to date her.—In the Dark in Upper Darby, Pa.

(A.) Call the girl and ask her. If in truth she has changed her mind about you again, she is the only one who knows why.

It's foolish to rely on second-hand reports when you can get the facts straight from the source.

FIGURE FEAR: (Q) I really think I'm overweight and have a lousy figure. I'm 5 feet 2 and weigh about 110—our scales aren't too exact. I'm 34-24-25. I want a good figure and don't want to weigh too much. Am I too fat?—Worried in Louisiana.

(A.) Those figures sound good to me. I urge girls not to try to be extremely thin just because fashion models are. Few teen-age boys go with fashion models. They usually go with school girls. And they like girls who have some shape.

Jim: "We haven't shown any old bid plans or plays lately. We do see them on occasion."

Oswald: "Here's a good one from a team game where the hand is played only twice. The bidding in the box shows what happened at table one. West wanted to double for business but he and his partner were playing the new-fangled negative double, so he passed. East reopened with a takeout double and West converted it to a penalty by passing."

Jim: "Perfect defense would set declarer four tricks. Did it come off?"

Oswald: "Yes. East cashed three hearts while West got rid of two clubs. The ace of clubs and a club ruff came next. A diamond back to the ace allowed West to ruff another club. He cashed his king of diamonds and led another diamond. East ruffed with the eight of spades and South had to use the jack to overruff. This made it possible for West to win two more trump tricks. South was held to just three tricks."

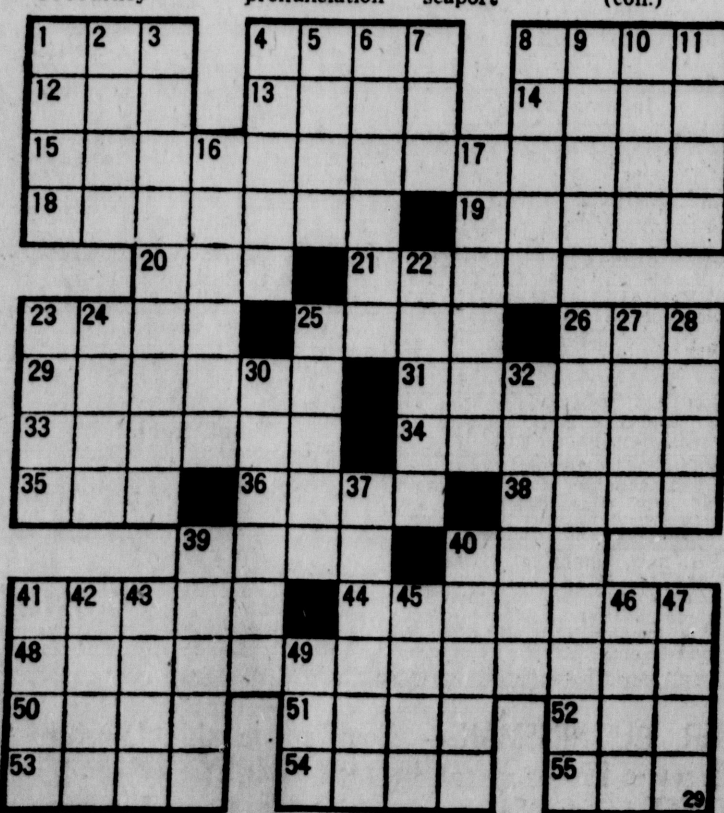

Jim: "South had a reasonable overcall and the defense was brilliant. What happened at the other table?"

Oswald: "South ended up at two spades. He realized the error of his ways when West doubled, but had no place to go. However, the defense wasn't perfect and this South collected four tricks to tie the board at minus 700."

County Legal Aid—The Workings Explained

By HUGH REYNOLDS
KINGSTON

The image of a public defender conjures up pictures of young lawyers fighting for their client's life against seemingly impossible odds.

The Legal Aid Committee of the Ulster County Bar Association doesn't operate quite as dramatically or with as much publicity but it gets the job done.

Richard Anthony, chairman of the committee, explained its work this way in a Freeman interview: "The indigent person in a criminal case is well protected through the appointment of court assigned attorneys. In civil cases, it's something else. The courts don't enter into those cases.

The county bar association does and quite often, according to Anthony who was interviewed with Robert Ronder, a member of the county bar's executive committee and N. Jansen Fowler, its president.

"I probably average five calls a day," Anthony said. "Sometimes I can help them out with some curbside legal advice. Sometimes I have to assign an attorney."

Assignments are drawn from a list of 134 attorneys in the bar association. "Everyone gets the call," Anthony says. "I just go down the list."

Since the service is free to the client, there are certain criteria for eligibility. "We have no means to investigate so we have to depend on other public agencies," Anthony explained. "Clients have to be on public assistance of some sort. Older persons living only on Social Security would also apply."

Ronder noted. "The field of law we don't handle divorces or is getting so vast and complex." and with the client's own cars and land generally don't qualify either.

In short, the committee doesn't give out free legal service to persons who might be able to afford to pay for it.

The committee also doesn't get involved in law suits for plaintiffs. Ronder explains: "A (plaintiff) law suit is a fee generating case. If a lawyer thinks a client has a case he can take it and get paid from the settlement." The committee, will, however, defend an indigent person in a law suit.

The program, in its present form, with a central administrator (Anthony) is fairly new, dating back to early last year. But Fowler, the bar association president, points out that the county's lawyers have always made their time available for persons unable to afford legal service.

"We've always given freely when there was need," Ronder said and Fowler added, "There's still a number of attorneys in this county who get direct calls for legal aid and just do it."

Fowler allowed that the younger lawyers today seem "more concerned."

Anthony is an example working in a legal aid clinic in Columbus, O., while attending the University of Ohio Law School. "It was quite an honor to be selected," Anthony said. "There's a lot of New areas of law opening up through the legal aid programs, especially consumer fraud."

As noted by Fowler, it is not uncommon for county attorneys to offer their legal expertise to persons in need.

Such is the case in downtown Kingston where the Ronder Community Action Committee, with the assistance of Vincent G. Bradley, a Green Street attorney, is setting up a legal advisory service.

Sponsors of the program, Arthur Randolph, chairman of the Ronder Community Action Committee Board of Directors and Edward Brown, community advisor, see the service as a kind of sounding board for local residents. If warranted, people could be referred to the legal aid committee of the county bar association.

The first session is set for the April 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ronder neighborhood center on lower Broadway. It is planned that sessions will be held every other Thursday night.

Stewart Field Shift

Go Slow Approach Favored

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) — Newburgh-area citizens and officials apparently think the state should move slowly in any plans to turn Stewart Airfield into the New York City area's fourth major jetport.

At a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored meeting Saturday, Reps. John Dow and Hamilton Fish joined Walden Mayor

James Olley and the town supervisors of Newburgh and New Windsor in a resolution asking for a meeting with Governor Rockefeller.

Interested parties had held talks with the Metropolitan Transportation Authority about using the former air base as a freight center. But they said any expansion into a passenger terminal should not be done without a full study of the environmental effects.

"We urge that no such decision be made without a full disclosure and maximum feasible public participation in the assessment of its probable consequences," the resolution said.

Several state legislators, including Sens. Richard Schermerhorn, R-Newburgh and Jay P. Rolison, R-Poughkeepsie, and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, R-Woodstock and Lawrence Herbst, R-Newburgh, have also expressed concern that the state will go ahead with the Stewart expansion without considering local opposition to the plan.

Herbst reported that an informal survey of residents shows 80 per cent were "unalterably opposed" to the idea.

Conservatives for Tax Talk

The executive committee of the Ulster County Conservative Party issued a statement today urging that full public discussion be given to cutting state taxes from present levels.

"Old fashioned political hacks such as Rockefeller, who oppose such a progressive program should be turned out of office," declared Harry S. Hoffman, party chairman.

"Rockefeller is repeating the same old scenario this year as in past years — come in with a budget requiring a huge increase in taxes, cut it back by some percentage, and then refer to it as the such and such percentage cut or austerity budget."

"Even if the proposed budget were cut from the originally proposed amount, it would be an increase of more than 10 per cent from the current budget level."

Hoffman, speaking for the committee continued, "Taxpayers who are sick and tired of annual tax increases can give the opportunity to vote correct the situation by voting for a man of the caliber of Row C candidates. The state California's Gov. Ronald Reagan, it will be on Row C. Now is the time for a change cent cut in state spending from Rockefeller's confiscatory what it is today (not from some taxation programs to the fiscal projected increased budget) as conservation programs of the explicit goal.

Admits Blacks And Pay Fine

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — The Hempstead Volunteer Fire Department, complying with a ruling by the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court, has admitted three black men to membership and paid a $250 fine.

The fine against the Long Island vamps was levied for their previously having ignored an order from the State Division of Human Rights to "cease and desist" from discriminating against minority group members in processing applicants.

It was the first fine to have been imposed on a volunteer fire department in New York State for refusing to obey a division order directing the admission of an applicant.

The Appellate Division, acting on a case which had its beginnings in November of 1968, found the fire department guilty of civil and criminal contempt.

Human Rights Commissioner Robert J. Mangum Saturday called the court's decision "the most significant breakthrough in our four-year thrust to enforce the equal right of the blacks in a community to join the local volunteer fire department."

The case involved Albert Brown, Thomas Watts and Howard Young, all of Hempstead, and Robert N. Johnson of West Hempstead, who filed complaints in late 1968, alleging they had been derided membership because of their race.
